

Reginald and Chris Marden are still missing

Reginald Marden stands on the steps of his plane.

By Don Staruk

A week after Reginald Marden, 46, and his son, Christopher, 16, of 10 Orchard St., were reported missing in an apparent plane crash off Nantucket, his friends are recalling a man who loved the island as a place to get away.

"He was very much a part of Nantucket and it a part of him," Chris Doherty, of Andover, said last week-end while at the Mardens' island home.

The Mardens' eight-room home on Pocomo Road fronts on Nantucket Harbor, in the Pocomo section of the island, near Wauwinet. Mr. Doherty and other friends were doing some work at the home last Saturday, June 11.

"It's a beautiful sunny day on the island of Nantucket, and that's not what's going on here," Mr. Doherty said.

Everyone was just hoping the plane and the Mardens would be found soon, according to Mr. Doherty.

"If the aircraft could be found, and if Reg and Christopher could be located, then I think it would be the best thing for the family and friends," Mr. Doherty said.

Mr. Marden's wife, Joanne, said this week that trying to handle whatever is supposed to happen next, without her husband and son being found, has been "just impossible" for her and her two daughters, Elysa, 25, and Sarah, 12.

"We're having a really difficult time and we just don't want (to make) any comment," Ms. Marden said. "People have been really wonderful."

Joyce Dyer, a spokesperson for the Federal Aviation Administration, said Tuesday, June 14, that she understood Ms. Marden was arranging privately for the search for her husband and son to resume. American Underwater Search and Survey in Bourne has

Small group asks for input in the teacher evaluation process

By Alix Driscoll

Two Andover High School students asked what could be done about poor teachers.

One parent questioned the transfer of a teacher to Bancroft School, and others asked about the transfer process in general. Another parent and former PAC president gave many suggestions about a new process for teacher evaluation.

The School Committee began the process of writing new teacher evaluations by listening to comments from the public Tuesday night. Only 15 members of the public,

The changing face of Andover politics

How to run a political campaign in this community

By Neil Fater

During his campaign for office in 1967, the late Bill Doherty came into his brother's office with some apparently distressing news.

"I just had a fellow offer me $10 for my campaign fund," he said.

Jim Doherty just laughed.

"Well, what would I do with it?" Bill asked.

Times have changed. Before he realized he was running unopposed this year, Selectman Larry Larsen raised $4,312.50, the bulk of it from just one $25-a-head event. Though this was the largest amount raised during the town elections, it may be the sign of a growing trend.

Organized campaigns are beginning to dot Andover's political landscape with greater frequency.

There is perhaps no better example of this than the effort of the Andover Community for Education (ACE) this year to override Proposition 2½ to fund $40.5 million in school improvement projects.

"For something like this override, there is no other way to do it from the way we did it," said Madhu Sridhar, who along with Ann Muller has been credited with seeing the building campaign through to completion. "Some day I will probably count the number of people involved in the campaign."

Lloyd Willey also ran an impressively-organized, and ultimately successful, political campaign this year. After unseating Susan Jenkins in the School Committee race, Mr. Willey celebrated with approximately 75 people who had been involved in his campaign. The previous year, Mr. Willey was the campaign manager for current chairman Dick Muller, who also won a spot on the committee.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Tage Inn robbed

By Don Staruk

A man who claimed to have a gun robbed the Tage Inn on River Road of about $200 Sunday night, June 12, and escaped on foot.

The desk clerk said a white man in his early 20s, with blond hair, blue eyes, about 5-foot 10-inches tall and wearing a black and white jacket, came to the front desk just before 10 p.m., said he had a gun in his pocket and asked for money. She gave him "a couple hundred dollars in travelers' checks and $189 in cash," according to Sgt. James Hashem. The man then fled the building on foot. No vehicle or accomplices were seen.

Sgt. Hashem said the suspect never showed a gun.

The suspect had a dimple on one cheek and a scar on or near his upper lip. He also was wearing jeans and the jacket had a small logo on it.

Library surveys are due June 24

June 24 is the last day to return Memorial Hall Library's community survey. Residents who have received but not returned a copy of the survey sent to 2,500 randomly selected residents, are asked to send it back now.

A person's confidential answers to questions about which library materials and services he or she would like to see increased will provide the library's long-range planning committee with information it needs to develop a long-range plan responsive to readers' needs and wants. All responses are needed, including non-users, to help the library better serve all the community.

Participants who want to participate in the drawing for one of the Friends-sponsored prizes should include first name and telephone number on the last page.

Rep. Coon worked on lottery money

Rep. Gary M. Coon, R-Andover, voted for an amendment to the FY'95 budget that would have returned more than $66,000 in lottery money to Andover in the form of unrestricted local aid.

The amendment would have done the following:

- Kept the "Racing Action" game in play;
- Stopped lottery revenues from being allocated to race track purses, a higher education scholarship fund and the Greyhound Humane Disposition and Adoption Trust Fund;
- Returned money generated by the sale of "Racing Action" tickets to all Massachusetts cities and towns in the form of unrestricted local aid in accordance with the lottery revenue/local aid formula over and above any local aid cap.

"Net revenues from the state lottery games should be going to cities and towns as originally intended," said Rep. Coon. "Andover certainly could use these resources. Although the House failed to adopt the amendment, I hope the Senate will adopt it."

The amendment failed to pass by a vote of 53 in favor and 97 against. A similar attempt to send this money to cities and towns may be offered as an amendment to the budget during debate in the Senate.

Senator O'Brien lists local hours

State Senator John D. O'Brien, D-Andover, will hold office hours Thursday, June 30, at the Andover Senior Citizen Center on Bartlett Street from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m., and Monday, June 20, at Memorial Hall Library on Elm Square from 6 to 7 p.m.

U.S. Rep. Meehan calls for greater accountability

U.S. Rep. Marty Meehan recently called for greater ethical accountability among members of Congress, voluntarily releasing his income tax returns for the last five years and calling upon his opponents to do the same.

Mr. Meehan, who has announced his intent to seek a second term in the U.S. House of Representatives, believes that financial-disclosure requirements for law-makers do not go far enough. While members of Congress must file forms that detail income, personal assets and campaign finances with the House clerk and Federal Election Commission, which Mr. Meehan has done, they are not required to make their tax returns public.

"The American people's faith in their elected officials has been shaken over the last several years and, considering some of the recent shenanigans in Washington, their mistrust is justified," Mr. Meehan said. "It is time for members of Congress to get out of the dark ages and prove they are complying with the laws that they have created."

"People have a right to expect full disclosure from their law-makers, those who are currently serving, as well as those who are seeking office. Public officials should be subjected to public scrutiny," he said.

In addition to tougher ethics law, Mr. Meehan has supported other reforms for members of Congress, including term limits, campaign-finance reform and the elimination of many congressional perks.

Deadline for volunteer stories is June 23

The Townsmen is preparing with community organizations a group of stories about volunteers. The paper will publish brief stories about Andover residents who volunteer for organizations, or people who volunteer for Andover organizations.

The paper asks organizations to nominate one person to be profiled. The person should be an extraordinary volunteer.

Make sure to include the name, address and phone number of the volunteer, and the name of the organization, its address, phone number and the name of a contact person. Also include a photo if possible.

Any other information would be helpful: length of volunteer services, description of duties and interesting anecdotes.

In addition, organizations that are looking for volunteers should say so, and include a description of the position, hours, expertise needed, and information on how to respond.

Stories are due Thursday, June 23.

Soccer coach files injunction over game site

By Don Staruk

The Andover Junior Warriors girls soccer team lost its playoff game 2-1 in overtime against Marblehead Friday night, losing the chance to play in the state championship quarterfinals, but the team had already fought a battle - in court - before even getting on the field last week.

Despite the fact that the Warriors' record in the Division 1, under-14 league, was better than Marblehead's, the Essex County Youth Soccer League originally scheduled the playoff game to be played at Marblehead instead of in Andover or on a neutral field. In addition, the game was scheduled for 6 p.m. Friday, when three Warrior players, two who attend Pike School and one who attends St. Augustine's School, couldn't make the game because it coincided with graduation ceremonies at their schools.

On Thursday, June 9, after the league refused to change either the time or location of the game, Warriors assistant coach Dick Roth filed for an injunction against the soccer league, in Essex County Court in Salem, and won.

"They're serving papers to the president of the league. He has to either agree to come to Andover to play or find a neutral field," Edward O'Connor, Junior Warriors' head coach, said after the decision Thursday afternoon.

Mr. O'Connor said he asked Sue Wartman, director of the town soccer league, to offer an Andover field for the playoff game. Eventually, the game was played in Peabody. The judge did not address the timing of the game to accommodate the players' graduation ceremonies, so it was still played

In overtime, Marblehead 2, Andover 1

The Under-14 girls soccer game last Friday was a disappointing end to an outstanding season for a terrific team, said Andover coaches and organizers. The game coincided with graduations at Pike School and St. Augustine's School, which resulted in three key starters being unable to attend.

The scrambled lineup had more than enough good shots to win, but couldn't finish. The Junior Warriors succumbed 2-1 in overtime.

The only goal was off a perfect pass from Laura Orlando to Jessie Smith, who ended up top scorer for the season. Barb Contos and Megan Burke played extremely well in controlling Marblehead forwards.

This very physical game was fair and well refereed, according to Andover coaches. Courtney Barron and Sarah Muller contributed strong games but were temporarily knocked out of the game, further scrambling

Mr. Roth said prior to the judge's decision that he had hired an attorney to handle the injunction and that the court case was costing him $1,000.

"This is my thing alone. Nobody even knows I'm doing this," he said earlier Thursday.

He just wanted to be able to think back on this series and be satisfied that he and the other coaches did everything they could to give the girls the chance they deserved, Mr. Roth said.

He said the girls have been building up toward the playoffs for two years, and that one was in tears last week when she learned she would not be able to the lineup. Julie Viola was a dominant factor as goalie, making a couple of diving saves. At one point she was on the ground, leaving an open net, but Viki Pierce and Charlotte Muller showed their skill by keeping a free ball in front of the net from being scored.

Julie Litzenger controlled midfield from her stopper position, and Noelle Blank carried the load as a midfielder, winning most of the balls in her area. Kristi Keller and Brenna O'Connor took a terrific pounding, but kept pressure on the Marblehead defense.

Best wishes to Marblehead to "go all the way," said the team.

the number-one team in this part of Essex County and Marblehead is the number-two team. Mr. Roth said the playoff games have always been held at a neutral field. In the event that the game would not be played at a neutral field, then the home-field advantage customarily goes to the team with the better record.

He said it was "unconscionable" on the part of the league to make the Andover team drive to Marblehead on a Friday night to play a team with a lesser record. All he wanted was for the game to be rescheduled at a place and time when both teams could make it, he said.

"Give these girls a chance. Let these girls play," Mr. Roth said prior to the judges decision.

Mr. O'Connor agreed Thursday that playing the game at Marblehead would have given Marblehead an "unfair advantage."

5 sixth-graders involved in exploding-pen incident at Boston bank

By Perry Colmore

Five Doherty Middle School sixth-graders have been disciplined by the school after an incident at the Federal Reserve Bank in Boston.

Seventeen to 20 sixth-graders from Joyce McGrath's class were on a field trip to the Boston bank last Wednesday as part of the class enrichment program about business and finance.

"There was some rudeness," said Ms. McGrath, who was not on the trip.

She said that although there is some confusion about who did what, a boy had an exploding pen, a girl apparently grabbed it, and it went off in the bank.

Ms. McGrath said the noise "startled" the group.

Although the group was allowed to finish the tour, the four parents who were the only chaperones on the trip brought the students back to Andover after the visit was completed, instead of taking the group to lunch in Boston, the traditional ending to such a field trip, Ms. McGrath said yesterday.

The group was the second of three groups of sixth-graders that were scheduled to go to the Federal Reserve Bank last week. The bank asked the school not to send the third group.

"The Tuesday group was fine," said Ms. McGrath.

Ms. McGrath said bank officials "were upset."

"I've talked with the bank," she said. "They are not happy with the kids."

Ms. McGrath said she will talk with bank officials next year to attempt to arrange future student visits.

Five sixth-graders have been disciplined, she said. They had to apologize to their classmates, and they are not allowed on other field trips. The class has since been to the John F. Kennedy Museum in Boston and a whale watch is scheduled, but these students will be excluded.

"It was unfortunate," said Ms. McGrath. "But we have dealt with it."

Selectmen praise Jane Griswold, talk cable TV and more

By Don Staruk

Selectman Monday night presented a citation to Jane Griswold, of 14 Woodland Road, recognizing her as a recipient of a Massachusetts Historical Commission 1994 State Preservation Award. Ms. Griswold won the award for her "Sunday Drive" columns in The Eagle-Tribune. The columns highlight historic structures throughout the Merrimack Valley. Ms. Griswold was nominated by the historical commissions of Andover, North Andover, Methuen and Lawrence.

Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski said one person being singled out for honor by all four communities is "outstanding."

The board approved the town manager's reappointment of members of several town boards and commissions. Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski pointed out that there are still vacancies on the Conservation Commission, the Historic Commission, the School Building Committee and the Fair Housing Partnership. Anyone interested in serving on any of those boards, or in any capacity for the town, should contact the town manager's office.

Selectman Gerald Silverman, the board's liaison to the Cable Advisory Committee, said TCI Cablevision will

Your Dental HEALTH

BREAST-FEEDING EFFECT ON BABIES' TEETH

Breast-feeding can have an impact on whether an infant develops straight teeth. This is the conclusion reached by researchers at Johns Hopkins School of Public Health. After reviewing the data collected on 10,000 babies, it became apparent that those infants who had been breast-fed for more than a year had the lowest incidence of crooked teeth. Babies who had been breast-fed for three months or less had the highest risk of developing bad bites. When babies are fed from bottles, they usually develop a tongue-thrusting habit. This is characterized by a forward movement of the tongue during swallowing to stop the onward flow of milk from the bottle's nipple. As a result, undue pressure is exerted on the front teeth, causing them to become crooked.

If you have concerns about the progress of your child's teeth, a dentist's evaluation can help alleviate your fears. For a child's mouth to grow and develop properly, it is important to start with healthy primary teeth. Teach your child that visiting the dentist is a part of growing up. Call us for a consultation at 475-2431, 296 Lowell Street, Rt 139, with easy access off Rt 93, for complete family dental care, for the young to be young at heart. Hrs: Mon & Thur 10-8, Tues & Fri 9-6, & by appointment.

P.S. Breast-feeding encourages the growth of straight teeth by allowing babies to develop tongue movement patterns that encourage good tooth alignment.

Understanding Chiropractic

AN EFFECTIVE HEADACHE TREATMENT

According to the new Office of Alternative Medicine at the National Institute of Health, chiropractic treatment offers better relief for tension headaches than pain-killing drugs. These findings are based on the results of a six-week study at the Northwestern College of Chiropractic in Bloomington, Minnesota. The study involved 150 chronic headache patients who were treated with either chiropractic spinal manipulation or a standard daily dose of the prescription headache drug amitriptyline. Aspirin and ibuprofen were also taken as needed. At the end of the study, both treatments were equally effective. However, a month later, only the spinal manipulation group continued to show improvement, leading researchers to recognize it as the most effective long-term headache management strategy.

If you or a family member have chronic headaches or other health problems, we hope you will consider chiropractic. We are dedicated to helping you achieve total health through our safe and natural programs. For more information or an appointment, please call DeLorenzo Chiropractic Group, 475-5042. Our office is located at 15 Central St. Make this Father's Day a special one!

P.S. A month after the tension headache study, the subjects who took pain killers had just as many headaches (and took as many OTC drugs) as when the study began.

Bertucci Menucci to join several smoke-free restaurants in Andover Bertucci Menucci, which is located on Main Street, will become 100 percent smoke free as of July 5, according to Lisa Haney, customer service manager of all the Bertucci Brick Oven Pizzeria restaurants.

"This winter we started receiving a lot of phone calls regarding this issue," said Ms. Haney. "The number of smoke-related calls tripled recently."

She said another cue was where people asked to be seated.

"The smoking sections are the last to be seated," she said. "Almost all of our customers request to be seated in the non-smoking sections."

The firm made its Harvard Square and Wellesley locations non-smoking on March 15.

"The transitions went so smoothly we were a bit surprised. We expected some complaints, but to date, we haven't received any."

"We were concerned about customer reaction," she said. "In Harvard Square and Wellesley, sales have not gone down for either food or beverage and we have not had a complaint at either location or on our customer comment line in regards to the new policy. We've received compliments such as 'thanks for doing it,' on our customer comment line. We're confident we've made the right decision."

Ms. Haney said the firm investigated and evaluated various smoking ces-

Lantern Brunch heard more compliments than complaints

There are other smoke-free restaurants in Andover, and soon, all restaurants in Andover will be required by law to be smoke-free. April Town Meeting passed a no-smoking bylaw for restaurants, as well as public buildings, retail establishments and municipal buildings.

Joanne Martel, code enforcement administrator for the town, said she hopes the law here will go into effect Aug. 1, but she still is not sure when it will be approved by the attorney general and the waiting period will be completed.

George Dukas, owner of the Lantern Brunch at Olde Andover Village, said his restaurant went smoke-free two or three months ago.

"I had a lot of people complaining" about the smoke, he said. Also, he had heard about the danger of second-hand smoke.

"I have a lot of families coming in with kids," said Mr. Dukas.

He said he has had very few complaints, and many compliments about the decision.

"We haven't lost any customers," he said.

Sean Miller, assistant manager of Friendly Ice Cream Stand restaurant on North Main Street, said his restaurant has been no-smoking many evenings for a while. He said they "play it by ear." If it is a slow night, they will open a small no-smoking section in the back.

The following other restaurants in Andover are smoke-free: Perfecto's, Bruegger's Bagel Bakery, Backstreet ... Again and John's Village Deli.

In addition, Ms. Martel said that the Coffee Connection, which is opening on Main Street later this month in the former Ford's location, will be smoke-free.

sation programs to support employees who smoke. Bertucci's will pay half the cost of a cessation program if the employee remains smoke free six months after the program.

Bertucci's Brick Oven Pizzeria has 54 restaurants in 11 states. As of July 5, all of the firm's locations, including 17 under construction, will be smoke free. The firm employs 3,700 people. Ms. Haney said she does not know how many of the employees are smokers.

Council donates computer chip to Tech School

The Facility Council of Merrimack Valley donated an automotive diagnostic computer chip to Greater Lawrence Technical School in appreciation for use of its classrooms and auto shop. The new enhancement will allow the diagnostic equipment to accept readings for newer vehicles.

The Facility Council, founded in 1982 by AAA and area garage owners, organizes and conducts automotive training seminars at the school. The council is a non-profit organization that offers automotive training seminars every month from September through May.

Terry Cronin joins Haverhill VNA

Terry Cronin of Andover has joined Home Health VNA of Haverhill as a full-time maternal/child health nurse. She will provide professional nursing skills to new mothers and their infants in the Lowell area.

Ms. Cronin attended Lawrence General Hospital School of Nursing. She was supervising nursing assistant to Dr. Joanne Y. Borland of Pawtucket Medical Associates in North Andover. She has also worked for Dr. William O'Reilly of Andover and was office manager for Dr. Richard F. Ciccarelli of Lawrence.

Ms. Cronin has a special interest in music and is involved in many church and community choir activities. She is a member of the St. Michael's Parish Council, St. Michael's Choir of North Andover and Methuen Community Chorus.

New business: A taste of foreign culture

By Sally Stryker

A taste of foreign culture has come to Andover via a small import shop on Main Street. Steve Wall and Gregg Praetz have opened Central Asian Imports, on the floor below Bruegger's Bagel Bakery. The import shop features artifacts from Central Asia and Pakistan.

The store specializes in handmade tribal and Pakistan/Persian rugs, rosewood furniture, tribal and semi-precious jewelry and green onyx figurines. Several pieces of the furniture are inlaid with mother of pearl.

The rugs, which are made in Lahore, Pakistan, feature a myriad of designs and refined patterns. However, if a customer doesn't see something he or she needs, said Mr. Wall, but can explain what he wants, it can be custom made.

"If someone doesn't mind waiting a few months, we can have anything made for them," said Mr. Wall.

That holds true for most of the items in the store, he said.

Hanging on the wall of the store are pictures of the artisans in Pakistan who make the items sold in the store.

Jeff Evangelos, store buyer and long-time friend of Mr. Wall, has visited Pakistan several times and has become friends with a top ranking carpet-making family.

"They liked him, so they took him home to their palace," said Mr. Wall.

Mr. Evangelos owns Central Asian Artifacts in Waldoboro, Maine, an affiliate to the store here.

"We don't sell ivory, but have camel bone jewelry in its place," said Mr. Wall, displaying intricately carved necklaces.

A violinist welcomed customers to the store's grand opening this past Saturday.

The store is open 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Friday; 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Saturdays; and noon to 5 p.m. on Sundays.

New business: Advertising and design group moves here

ResponsiveConcepts, the advertising and design group for the award winning In-Control software package, has relocated its offices from Somerville to Andover.

"I am excited about living in Andover," said Cynthia Christensen Bro, owner and creative director of ResponsiveConcepts. "I'm looking forward to working with local businesses and becoming active in the community."

Ms. Bro explained that her agency specializes in writing and producing advertising, direct mail and corporate identity programs for a variety of industries. Her clients include Thomson Financial, Softkey (Spinnaker Software and Wordstar), Directech, The MathWorks and Epsilon.

"The philosophy of ResponsiveConcepts is to deliver cutting edge designs that produce measurable results," said

Ms. Bro. "We believe in paying attention to detail, and to delivering quality work that fits our clients' budget and time constraints."

Before establishing her own agency in 1990, Ms. Bro served as the senior art director for the Al Paul Lefton Company in Philadelphia. She has more than 10 years experience in advertising and is a member of the New England Direct Marketing Association and Rotary International.

Ms. Bro takes on civic and community-minded design projects. In 1992, her firm was chosen to design the logo for the City of Somerville's 150th anniversary, and recently she designed a fundraising Christmas card for the Danish Immigrant Museum that combined photography and state-of-the-art computer illustration.

ResponsiveConcepts' new office is located at 10 High St.

FINANCIAL STRATEGIES

THE THREAT OF DISABILITY

Most people grudgingly come to the realization that they need life insurance after they get married or have a child. Despite the fact that most people are much more likely to become disabled than to die in early or middle age, all too many never invest in disability insurance. The fact is that the loss of income due to disability can be at least as disastrous to a family's financial well-being as a cutoff of income due to death. When assessing the amount of monthly disability income that is necessary, one should base the amount on 60 to 70 percent of the insured's earned income. This would approximate the insured's income after taxes. Disability income benefits are tax-free, except in cases where corporations deduct the premiums of employees' group disability insurance benefits. Oftentimes the resulting shortfall in net benefits received can be corrected by supplementing the Group Long-Term Disability coverage one has through work with a small individual disability income policy. Let's discuss the details of this strategy, and whether or not it applies to you.

Please give me a call today to discuss your financial objectives and how proper money management can help you achieve them. I am a Chartered Financial Consultant. BAYSTATE FINANCIAL SERVICES is located at 10 Essex Street, here in Andover at 475-9212. For your convenience, I also have an office at 100 N. Washington St., in Boston (617-623-4500).

NOTE: Common benefit periods for disability insurance are five years, to age 65, and lifetime. Which option you select can be very important. Be sure to discuss it at length with a well trained, capable financial advisor.

Small group asks for input in teacher evaluation process including several Andover school personnel, attended the meeting.

The Education Reform Act of 1993 requires Massachusetts communities to devise new standards for teacher evaluation. These will be a part of the package negotiated with the teachers, Dick Muller, committee chairman.

A student expresses concern

Helen Sellers, 17, of 40 York St., a junior at Andover High School, said she is not too concerned about the evaluation tools, but she said she has more concern about the lack of control over a poor teacher.

"Teachers are being slapped on the wrist. When 10 to 15 kids in class are complaining about a teacher, and they are not reprimanded, something more needs to be done," said Ms. Sellers.

James Krasnoo, former president of Andover High School PAC, agreed with Ms. Sellers.

"We need to turn out a fine product, and that is what teacher evaluation is all about," he said.

Student input

Ms. Sellers said students want to be involved in school matters and teacher evaluations.

"We do care. We need the encouragement to get started, to begin the process," she said.

She talked about the Townsmen forum in March with students and School Committee candidates.

Later, she discussed with the Townsmen the need to plan a School Committee-student exchange of ideas.

Mr. Krasnoo validated the need for student input in teacher evaluation.

"They are able to unflinchingly say whether a teacher is fair or unfair," he said.

He suggested asking for comments on the effect of a teacher's personality and a measure of how much a student learned.

Mr. Krasnoo said High School students should be able to participate in the evaluation of teachers. He presented a model used in college for the entire class, with a checklist and place for written comments. There are no names needed and "there is no need of reprisal," said Mr. Krasnoo.

Tim Thomas, AHS principal, agreed. "I have encouraged teachers to hand out evaluations. I know a number of teachers who do," said Mr. Thomas.

Raheela Qureshi, a junior at the High School, said she disagrees with the way teacher evaluations are currently done by AHS students.

"I don't like that system very much because teachers will pick out students who will give good evaluations," she said.

She proposed allowing all students to write evaluations at home, and submit them anonymously during the time that the formal evaluations by administrators are being done.

Jane Cassidy, of 7 Bristol Lane, questioned the usefulness of the whole teacher evaluation process to make better teachers and asked, "If be notifying residents of a decrease in cable rates. The decrease will only be pennies in the basic rate, but will be more significant for additional services such as multiple hook-ups or repairs.

Mr. Silverman said he is way behind in his annual collection for the Fourth of July fireworks demonstration.

"I'm really hurting for fireworks money," he said Monday.

The fireworks display costs $12,000 to $15,000, said Mr. Silverman.

"I'm halfway there, thanks to a major, major contribution from Marshalls," he said. "But other than that it's been very slow."

Mr. Silverman said he sent 85 letters to local businesses and corporations, but has only heard back from 10.

Selectman Larry Larsen wants the board to scheduled a telephone call-in meeting, when the board can take calls from viewers while the meeting is being broadcast on cable television. Board members seemed to respond positively to the notion and will dis-nothing happens, why do it?"

But School Committeewoman Mary Lyman said, "Change is beginning to start tonight, because we have had this meeting," she said.

Broadening the evaluation tools

Debby Doherty, of 11 Locke St., suggested evaluating out-of-school activities such as field trips.

Mr. Krasnoo said it is important to note in the evaluation process curriculum limitations such as outdated materials or unusual circumstances, such as larger-than-normal class size.

He asked the School Committee to consider parent evaluation of some form and teacher evaluation of each other.

Kerry Costello, an Andover teacher for 18 years, school psychologist and member of the Andover Education Association, acknowledged the need for training those who do the evaluating.

Bill Becker, head of the AHS English Department, urged the committee to consider input from department heads in the process. He said such evaluation is needed, particularly in such specialized fields as foreign language or sciences. Currently, school administrators evaluate teachers.

Mr. Muller said the School Committee will be writing the new teacher evaluation guidelines during the summer.

Two more chances for public input

There will be two more opportunities for public input in the teacher-evaluation discussion, said Mr. Muller. Time will be allotted at the beginning of the Tuesday, June 21, School Committee meeting, at 7:30 p.m., for comments and suggestions from the public. In addition, Mr. Muller requests written comments and ideas by the end of June.

Deadline for school news is Friday at 5 p.m.

THE REAL ESTATE CORNER

with Jean Fitzgerald & Pamela Lebowitz

WHAT IS THE MARGIN ON AN ARM?

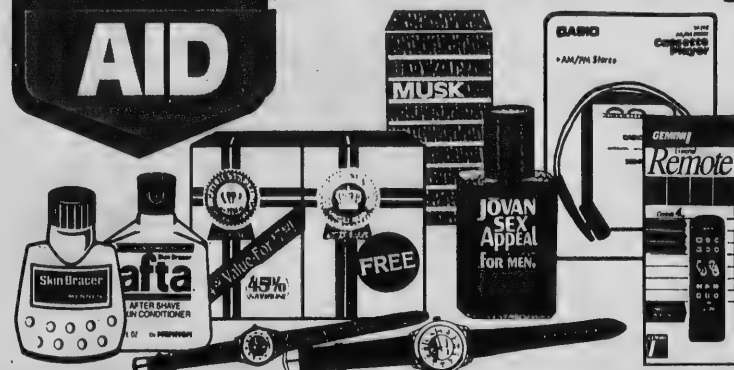

When you are shopping for an Adjustable Rate Mortgage, an important item to consider is the margin. Each time your loan is adjusted, the new interest rate will be tied to an index of Treasury notes. The margin is the percentage point above that index where your rate will be set.

Suppose that you have a one year ARM with a 2.5 margin. Your index of 1-year Treasury notes was 6.25%. The rate for year 2 of your loan would be adjusted to 8.75%. With a margin of 2.75, it would increase to 9%. Some lenders will offer lower initial rates with higher margins, and this means that after the first year, your subsequent rates could be higher than if you had gone for a higher initial rate with a lower margin. If you are confused by the various lender's offerings, ask a professional Realtor to sit down with you and paper and pencil and a financial calculator to show you how it works.

If you are considering a move, contact the professionals at Century 21 Carriage House. Call us at 475-1243, or stop by our office at 10 High Street.

GRADUATING AHS SENIORS GO ON SAFARI

Class of 1994's last celebration

Senior Safari... The comments are still pouring in, according to organizers, but by all accounts, the second annual all-night, drug- and alcohol-free post-graduation celebration was "a tremendous success." What accounts for this success? When seniors arrived, they were astonished at the transformation of their gym into a jungle. There were so many activities, they never had time to be bored. There was no substance abuse. School and community involvement was greater than ever. Visitors commented, "These kids are really great." And best of all, parent volunteers numbered in the hundreds.

The purpose of Senior Safari is to provide a "safe place" for Andover High seniors to celebrate graduation together. Organizers wanted to provide for them a place to gather one last time, after the non-stop senior-week events, graduation and family parties.

It was a place to meet old friends and make new friends. Some graduates were pleasantly surprised to learn that after spending four years at the High School, there were still new friendships to be made during Senior Safari. The graduates came together with a common goal - to have a good time as a class before going out into the "real world."

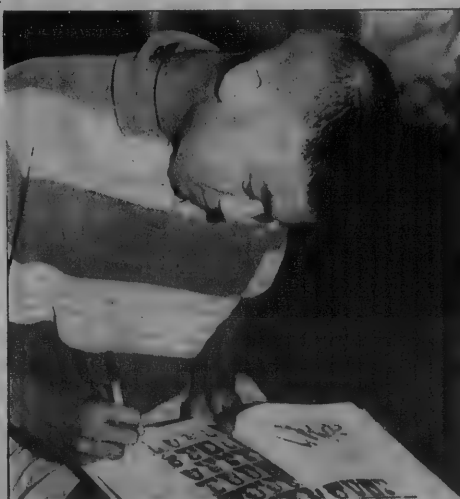

After a year of fund-raising, all the ideas came together during one long weekend of decorating by hundreds of parents and friends. There were safari animals that looked real, eight-foot-high masks, decorated walls, a volcano glowing next to the dance floor, a bridge into the gym suspended over a pool of water, and a temple complete

Local academically talented students are honored

Nine Andover fifth- and sixth-graders were among 260 students from Massachusetts who were honored for their outstanding verbal and/or mathematical ability discovered in the third annual 1994 Young Students Talent Search.

The Young Students Talent Search is based on the successful Seventh Grade Talent Search conducted by the Johns Hopkins University Center for Talented Youth in Baltimore, Md.

Fifth- and sixth-graders who scored at or above the verbal or quantitative mean scores of eighth- and ninth-graders, respectively, on the PLUS Academic Abilities Assessment received certificates of merit and special awards at the state level in a

College on Saturday, June 4.

Honored at the ceremony from Andover were Rebecca S. Dann, Katherine A. Mason, Andrew M. Timko and Erin E. West.

Pike School graduates 51 students

Fifty-one students graduated from Pike School last Friday, June 10, in the William H. Harding Gymnasium. Headmaster David A. Frothingham awarded diplomas to the eighth- and ninth-graders going on to secondary school.

Amanda Orr Harmeling and Carolyn J. Kulp, from Pike's board of trustees and mothers of two of the graduates, extended congratulations from the board members.

It is a custom at Pike for a member of the class that graduated four years earlier to give the commencement address. This year's speaker was Sushant Srinivasan, who graduated summa cum laude May 30 from Brooks School. The National Merit Scholarship finalist and advanced-placement scholar with distinction is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Melukote Srinivasan of Andover. He will enter Harvard in the fall.

Awards were presented to outstanding graduates.

Taylor Harmeling of North Reading won the Headmaster's Award for leadership and high standards of scholarship. Bethany Caruso of Andover received the Margaret J. Little Award for spirit, including integrity, generosity and thoughtfulness. Antonia Karbe of Boxford was awarded the Alumni Prize, recognizing academic improvement, responsibility and friendliness. Christian Derderian of Methuen received the Nicholas Grieco Prize for academic improvement, personal growth and positive influence on fellow students.

A new service award was instituted this year to honor Pike's departing headmaster. Mr. Frothingham presented the first David A. Frothingham Award for community service to Bethany Pappalardo of Methuen and Brian Fleming of Lowell.

Several students were recognized with academic awards. Christopher Diamond of Andover received the Founder's Award for an outstanding record in mathematics and the Latin Prize and English Prize. Taylor Harmeling and Christopher Diamond were awarded the French Prize and Megan Goodwin of Kingston, N.H., received the Spanish Prize. History prizes were presented to Molly MacKean of West Newbury and Sean Fitzgerald of Andover. Bethany Pappalardo received the Alice L. Jablonski Science Prize.

Fine arts awards were presented to Sean Fitzgerald, for excellence and innovation in photography; Richard Caruso of Andover, for excellence in studio arts; and Cara Kettenbach of North Andover as well as the entire ninth grade for excellence in the performing

Goal for teens: read 500 books

"Reach Out - Read!" is the new summer reading program at Memorial Hall Library for young adults. Teen readers will be challenged to read for charity; a goal of 500 books has been set. When the goal is reached, readers will have the opportunity to make donations to several local groups. The program is made possible by contributions from Friends of the Library and area merchants. Community members are also encouraged to support this effort. "Reach Out - Read!" starts Monday, June 27, and is open to students in grades 7-12.

Students recognized for athletic contributions were Antonia Karbe, the Girl's Athletic Trophy, and Ned Yetten of Andover and Richard Caruso, the Boy's Athletic Trophy. Bethany Caruso and Taylor Harmeling received the Kerri Kattar Award for athletic ability and enthusiasm. The Sally Bullard Award, presented to a sixth-grade boy and girl, was shared by Kristin Steinert of North Andover and brothers Daniel and Patrick Murphy of Wilmington.

Headmaster Frothingham was surprised with the presentation of an honorary diploma. A proclamation read by Upper School head Scott R. Smith announced that the graduates of 1994 had voted to have their headmaster become an honorary member of their group.

"Lock in a mortgage rate while you shop."

The typical house-hunt goes like this:

You find the house of your dreams. Sign the deal. Then you secure a mortgage—hoping that rates don't edge up and that you qualify for a big enough loan.

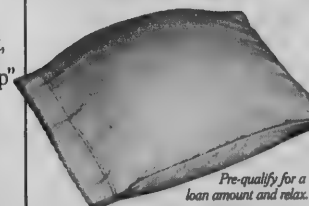

At Cambridge Savings Bank, our "Rate Lock While You Shop" is a better way to house-hunt.

• Lock in a rate.

Before you shop for a house, talk to us and we'll lock in your rate for 30 days. If rates go up, you're protected. If rates go down, you get the lower rate. Once you submit your application, your rate is then locked in through closing.

Lock in a rate for 30 days while you shop.

Pre-qualify for a loan amount and relax.

Find the house of your dreams.

Pre-qualify for a mortgage.

Talk with us before you settle on a house and we'll let you know how much you can borrow. That means you'll have better negotiating power when looking for a home.

These features come with any of our competitively-priced ARMs. Including our No Points/No Closing Costs* loans, and First Time Home Buyer loans at new, lowered rates.

Sixth-graders plan lunch and poetry in The Park

Today, June 16, sixth-graders from James Redmond's English classes at West Middle School and Sheila LaMontagne's English classes at Doherty Middle School will meet in The Park to entertain each other with poetry and art. Students have been asked to study four poems by the same poet and memorize one or more of these. Students are to interpret one of the poems, either by poster, book, sculpture, diorama or puppets. Using the style of the selected poet, students will write at least one imitative poem, which will also be interpreted through a selected art medium. The 210 students will be divided into 21 combined Doherty and-West groups. Everyone will bring a picnic lunch, with dessert provided by Doherty sixth-graders.

How 53 COMMUNITIES AND 20,000 SATISFIED RESIDENTS ADD UP TO A GREAT RETIREMENT.

When it comes to creating a great retirement lifestyle, there's no substitute for experience. That's why so many people have chosen to live in communities developed and managed by Life Care Services Corporation (LCS).

After more than 30 years in the business, LCS has an unmatched record of success and stability. More than 20,000 active, independent people have enjoyed retirement in our 53 communities nationwide.

Life-care retirement and the "perfect place in the country"

Now an LCS community will be located on 63 acres next to 194 protected acres in North Andover. Giving you the "perfect place in the country" with easy access to Boston, combined with an active lifestyle, social opportunities, security and peace of mind.

At Edgewood, you can choose a beautiful private apartment, enjoy a wide range of first-class services and amenities, and still have the protection of lifetime health care in our on-site, professional Health Center.

Our No-Risk Deposit is fully refundable.

Better still, Edgewood's No Risk Deposit makes it possible to reserve an apartment with a deposit of $8,000 which is fully refundable with interest if you decide to withdraw before construction begins. Entrance fees start in the $140,000s.

If you're over 62, find out how the Life Care Services track record adds up to a great opportunity at Edgewood. Send in the coupon today, or call for more information, (508) 689-0202.

This senior hits the Velcro Wall during Senior Safari.

Class of 1994 has one last celebration

(Continued from page 14) with a temple god standing prominently, "protecting" the travelers. And, of course, safari guides made up of underclass parents, AHS staff and friends helped keep the safari going smoothly. Food was abundant all night.

There were hairdressers, fortune-tellers, artists, contests, yearbook-signing, dancing, a disc jockey, comedians, a temporary-tattoo booth, a photo booth, a moonbounce, a senior slide show, a "Lucy Corner" (dispensing free advice to Charlie Brown and his friends), boxer-shorts-painting, video games and, of course, the Velcro

Wall. If none of this appealed to participants, a quiet space was provided to just hang around.

It was evident at 4:30 a.m. - when a "circle of friends" formed and class president Chris Sintros made a toast to the future - that the memories of Senior Safari would linger for a long time.

Co-chairwomen Carol Viola, Nancy Raymond and Bink Roberts said that the planning has already begun for next year's Senior Safari, on behalf of the class of 1995.

Punchard High to celebrate 50th reunion

Former classmates and associates are invited to a reunion celebration of the 50th anniversary of the class of 1944 of Punchard High School.

A dinner will be held at the Lanam Club Thursday, Sept. 15. A re-acquaintance hour will be begin at 6 p.m. with dinner at 7.

Details about the reunion plans are available from any of the following: Roger Collins, Natalie (Lawson) Miller, Dot (Webb) Smith, Irene McKee, Ruth (Grant) Muller, Dot (Abbott) Paterson, Bill Richards, Jim Caldwell, Jim O'Brien and John Crossley.

Students learn to choreograph dance

Sanborn School students were treated recently to a lecture/demonstration by Groundwerx Dance Theatre, a member of the Rhode Island State Council on the Arts Touring Co. and the Arts in Education program. Donna Meierdiercks, Heather Ahern and Peter Bramante began the program by warming up and explaining the importance of stretching and proper nutrition. They then went into the audience to shake hands with a number of students and exchange names. After a brief explanation of the term "contemporary," the trio demonstrated their "very athletic form of dance." They showed how they choreograph a piece using a variety of movements that are repeated and embellished upon. They explained how they use time, space, facial expressions and emotions in their choreography and took some suggestions from the audience.

The second half of the program included several of their favorite pieces, including one in which all three dancers wore combat boots. One of the dances was entitled "Pasta Pierro," which Ms. Ahern described as "kind of like a fairytale-gone-bad."

The performance was sponsored by the enrichment committee of the Sanborn PTO, and was made possible by a grant from the Andona Society.

Children hop in Easter Seal fund-raiser

Youngsters from Andover YMCA Nursery, Christ Church Children's Center, Discover Preschool, Cuddle Care and St. Robert's Country Day School hopped to help people with physical disabilities recently in an Easter Seal Hop-n-ing.

Each child secured pledges for every hop performed during a three-minute hop-n-ing.

Andover YMCA Nursery children raised $377; Christ Church Children's Center, $932; Discover Pre-School, $741; Cuddle Care, $1,152; and St. Robert's Country Day School, $878.

Next week,
On Campus will

away of West Elementary, Vikas Goela and Aaron Litvin of Doherty Middle, Robin W. Karfunkel and Adrea S. Lee of South Elementary and James A. Keating of Clark School. Rebecca Dann was also honored for having the very highest score for a Massachusetts fifth-grader on the verbal portion of the test.

Last fall, public and private schools in Massachusetts identified 721 students who qualified for the Young Students Talent Search and took the PLUS in January. Approximately 36 percent of these students were invited to the Celebration of Talent ceremony.

More than 200 students from 3,400 schools in 20 states and the District of Columbia participated in the 1994 search. Approximately 21 percent of all participants scored at or above the eighth- or ninth-grade mean scores on the mathematical part of the test, with 22 percent scoring at or above the verbal mean.

Study of Exceptional Youth, a division of the Center for Talented Youth. The Study of Exceptional Youth provides mentors and follows members throughout their school careers, giving support and making recommendations on schools, courses and career choices.

As a result of his high math score and qualifying verbal score, Andy also received a scholarship to Merrimack College for any four-credit course of his choice. He has been taking math courses at Merrimack College since last September and will take computer programming in the fall. He will attend a three-week Johns Hopkins program this summer, where he will study an accelerated course in linear algebra.

An ardent sports fan, Andy plays Little League baseball with the Phillies and enjoys memorizing baseball statistics, which makes him a valuable partner on his rotisserie league baseball team with his father.

Children's Room has 'Ticket to Read'

As soon as summer vacation begins, Andover children are invited to join nearly 200,000 Massachusetts readers as they book a "Ticket to Read" this summer. Offered through Memorial Hall Library's Children's Room, this summer's reading incentive program is scheduled for departure at the end of June and will be based on themes such as travel, transportation, Massachusetts, America and the world.

Young readers and "almost readers" and their families are invited to special programs and activities in the Children's Room all summer long. For example, "Time Travelers," a Tuesday evening program especially for children ages 9-12, will offer a variety of activities such as games, puzzles and book-sharing, all related to the topic of time travel.

Advance registration for this six-week program is suggested as space will be limited. Fliers with full details about these and other programs are available from the Children's Room.

Doherty Latin students attend classical convention

Fourteen Doherty Middle School Latin students of Elaine Elliot attended the annual Massachusetts Junior Classical League Convention held May 14.

The day-long event at Wakefield High School brought together Latin students from all over the commonwealth to participate in various activities and competitions. Some competitions are athletic, from footraces to "chariot" races, while others celebrate accomplishments in art and academics.

This is the first year Doherty students have attended a MJCL convention, and they made a good showing, organizers said, bringing home three ribbons in different events.

Ribbon winners were Becky Colgate, Andy Cotton and Carrie English. Other students who attended were Naveen Goela, Tyler Keene, Sara Lepore, Beibhinn O'Donoghue, Christopher Orbon, Susannah Parker, Christopher Sand, Andy Turco, Krista Wepsic, Roger Yeh and Mark Zammuto.

HAPPY FATHER'S DAY

Shawsheen School students tell the Townsman:

'What My Dad Means to Me'

By Sally Stryker

This Sunday, June 19, dads will be served breakfast in bed, given hand-made cards and special attention for what they mean to their children. The Townsman asked a group of kids from the Shawsheen School what their dads mean to them.

"He takes care of me," said first-grader Michael Canepa. "He takes me to Florida and we go fishing. One time we went whale-watching," he said. "He takes me places like the circus. He takes me to Clown Town every year."

"He watches Indiana Jones with me," said David Shack, a kindergartner. "My sister used to have Sunday school and me, my dad and my brother went to my grandmother's house," which David thought was a lot of fun. "He lets me go to work with him. They have a computer and I play games on it," David said.

"My dad goes to the playground with me," said Kate Therkelsen, kindergartner. "My dad helps my brother jump off the monkey bars," she said. "My dad has a computer and I can draw pictures on it."

Leslie Peck, in first grade, said "He plays games with me, like Rummikub."

"He takes care of me," she said.

"He does a lot of good things for me," said George Velonis, in first grade. "He gets me all the things I want, like Nintendo and stuff. He makes me breakfast everyday and he takes me to King's Subs."

Matt Hennessy, a first-grader, said, "I like him because he takes me places, plays sports with me and teaches me how to play sports better, like soccer, baseball and football."

"He helps me a lot when my mom isn't home, like with the computer," he said.

"My dad and I go bowling and golfing together, and he is going to get me my own set of clubs," said second-grader Amanda Senatore. "I like my dad because he plays tennis with me and he's a great dad," she said.

Bronko Carney, a second-grader, said, "He's my coach, and he makes me better at soccer." Bronko said his dad is special because he let him sign up to play lots of sports. "He helps me in the front yard sometimes with soccer. He tries his hardest, sometimes I don't," he said. "He makes me bacon and big cakes."

Kindergartner Lexi Caffrey said she likes her dad because, "He's like my T-ball coach because he helps me out." Lexi also said her dad goes Rollerblade-ing and sledding with her. "He drives me to school," she said.

"I eat breakfast with my dad every morning," said Jennifer Wang, kindergartner. "Sometimes he will go on a field trip when my mom is at work," she said. Jennifer also said that her father sometimes cooks dinner and drives her to kindergarten.

Magid Mazen, father

What My Dad Means to Me

My dad means fun, joy, compassion, and something no other dad has, a love for me.

My dad is very special, he helps me when I need help, and he talks to me when I'm stressed. My dad is humorous, that means to me many happy moments.

My dad isn't any dad, he is the man I was born to love the most. My dad, the best thing that ever happened to the world.

My name is Nadeem Abdelmagid Mazen.

I'm 10 years old, I go to Bancroft

Elementary School, and I'm in fourth grade.

Sen. John O'Brien, D-Andover (standing, third from left), was among the local visitors who attended an informal gathering at the Professional Center at 62 Osgood St. The Center, which serves Andover and surrounding towns, is planning to expand, with a new site on Parker Street in Lawrence. Its early-intervention program monitors children's development up to age 3, and its day school has students whose needs range from slight learning deficits to multiple handicaps. Standing with Sen. O'Brien are, from left, Julie Patterson, parent liaison; David Yoshida, president of the board; Bonnie Langendorfer, educational coordinator; and Cindy Stocking, co-director; (seated) Sandy Levine, EI program director; and Veryl Anderson, co-director.

Merrimack Valley's largest yard sale

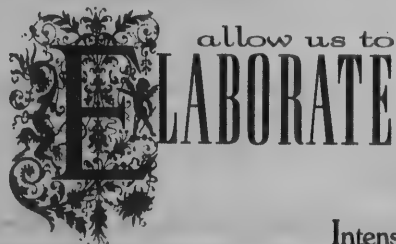

West Parish Church's annual yard sale on Saturday, June 18, from 8:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. is reportedly the largest yard sale in the Merrimack Valley. Hundred of items, from kitchen appliances and air conditioners to toys, golf clubs, clothes and books, have been donated by the 150-family congregation to raise funds for the church.

The church is located at the corner of Lowell Street and Reservation Road.

Gibson-Iarrobino

Jo-Anne Marie Iarrobino and Scott Michael Gibson were married at St. Augustine Church. The evening candlelight ceremony was performed by the Rev. Arthur Johnson of St. Augustine Church and the Rev. James Diamond of Christ Church.

Beth Iarrobino of Swampscott was maid of honor. Anne Aumais, Alison Gibson and Betsy Murphy, all of Andover, and Beth Perry of Nashua, N.H., were bridesmaids.

Gage Perry of Nashua, N.H., was best man. Peter Gibson of Scarborough, Maine, Steven Gibson of Wilmington, Joseph Iarrobino and Jon Iarrobino, both of Andover, were ushers.

The bride wore an off-the-shoulder, silk shantung gown with lace, sequins and pearls decorating the bodice and hem and a chapel-length train. Her silk shantung headpiece wreath was decorated with silk rose buds and pearls and the cathedral length veil was decorated with pearls from her mother's gown. She carried a bouquet of white and lavender roses, English ivy and lily of the valley.

Jo-Anne and Scott M. Gibson

cle. She graduated from Andover High School in 1985 and Northern Essex Community College. She is a registered nurse at Holy Family Hospital in Methuen, currently attending Merrimack College.

Mr. Gibson is the son of Alexander and Hannah Gibson of 47 Old Country Road. He also graduated from Andover High School in 1985 and Northern Essex Community College. He graduated from Wentworth Institute of Technology and is self-employed.

The couple live in Andover.

Ginsberg-Gardner

Stephanie Lynne Gardner and Scott Ginsberg were married Jan. 1 at the Four Seasons Hotel in Boston. Rabbi Harry A. Roth performed the ceremony.

Dana Limanni of Methuen was maid of honor. Meredith Gardner of St. Louis, Alexandra Gardner of New York City and Julianne Gardner of Andover, the bride's sisters, Andrea Baer of New York City, Paula Goldberg of Boston, Lisa Siegel of Bethesda, Md., Lisa Fishman of Atlanta, Ga., and Loren Stolarsky of New York City were bridesmaids.

Mark Ginsberg of Marblehead was his brother's best man. The ushers were Robert Ginsberg, and Joel Ginsberg of Marblehead, Gregory Gilligan of St. Louis, Mo., Alex Gherl of Caracas, Venezuela, Jed Hall and Kenneth Siegel of New York City and Scott Sagan and Perry Hooker of Marblehead.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Howard M. Gardner of Andover. She is a graduate of Governor Dummer Academy and Boston University. She is a registered physical therapist and clinical director of Northeast Rehabilitation Hospital's outpatient facility in North Andover.

Her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Ginsberg of Marblehead. He received his bachelor of science degree from Salem State and is studying for his MBA at Columbia University. He is vice president of Olympus Mortgage in Salem, Mass.

The couple live in North Andover.

Semenetz-Marjerison

Kyle Lynn Marjerison and Todd Edward Semenetz were married in a ceremony performed by the Rev. Paul Clinton at Andover Country Club.

Jennifer Pelletier of North Andover was her cousin's maid of honor. Bridesmaids Lauri Hargrove and Beth McRae, the bride's aunt, and flower girl Hannah McRae, cousin of the bride, were from Georgia.

Frank Semenetz was his son's best man. Tim Wilson of Georgia and Brian Harris of Texas were ushers.

The bride is the daughter of Jerilyn and Thomas Marjerison III and granddaughter of Vida and Thomas Marjerison Jr. and Bernice Haggerty, all of

Kyle and Todd Semenetz

Andover. She is a graduate of Mitchell College and Quinnipiac College.

The groom is the son of Barbara and Frank Semenetz of South Salem, N.Y. He attended State University of New York at Albany and is a police officer in Georgia.

The couple live in Norcross, Ga.

Laros-Fitzpatrick

Torrie E. Fitzpatrick and David M. Laros were married Nov. 11, 1993, in St. Augustine Church. The Rev. Arthur Johnson performed the ceremony.

Kerry A. Fitzpatrick of Andover was her sister's maid of honor. Kristen Crerar of Cheshire, Conn., Beth Cutter of Foxboro, Beth Murphy of Tewksbury and Jill Greco of Park Ridge, N.J., were bridesmaids. Katherine Wood of Hampton, N.H., was flower girl.

William J. Laros was his brother's best man. Matthew Severino, Patrick Laros, Mark Fitzpatrick and Eric Fitzpatrick were ushers.

Following a reception at the Andover Marriott, the couple left for Disney World and a western Caribbean cruise.

The bride is the daughter of Alan J. and Virginia E. Fitzpatrick of 11 Smithshire Estates. She graduated from Andover High School and New Hampshire College. She is a corporate accountant.

Torrie E. and David M. Laros

Her husband is the son of William S. and Patricia Laros of Monroe, Conn. He is a graduate of Monroe High School and the University of Connecticut. He is a senior cost accountant.

The couple live in Danbury, Conn.

Golf tournament benefits Andover's 350th

By Virginia Lopez Begg, Andover Historical Society

Of many exciting events planned for Andover's 350th birthday celebration, the first will be a golf tournament at Andover Country Club on Monday, Aug. 22.

Participation is limited to the first 144 players to sign up. Event organizers Charles Murnane, David Lynch and Chris Doherty encourage those interested to contact them soon for forms and information.

Mr. Murnane may be reached at the Andover Fire Department and Mr. Doherty at 12 Bartlet St.

The purpose of the tournament is to raise funds for youth activities during the year-long celebration in 1996, including a soccer match between local teams and teams from Britain's Andover in Hampshire.

Registration and a continental breakfast begin at 6:30 a.m., with a 7:30 a.m. shotgun start. The morning of golf will be followed by a cookout lunch and the awarding of prizes. The participation fee of $100 will cover all expenses, including carts and greens fees. A raffle will also be held and event sponsors invite local businesses and individuals to donate items to be given as prizes.

The committee members are also asking for volunteers to assist on the day of the tournament. A number of people will be needed to keep everything running smoothly.

Andover's 350th Birthday Celebration Committee, chaired by Norma

Gammon, is eager to include the whole town in the observance. The committee is working on a spectrum of events and activities wide enough so that everyone may be included. The town's youth are an important part of the celebration and the August golf tournament, as well as a similar event next year, will provide much-needed financial support for that goal.

Historical and other books at Society's third annual book sale next weekend

The Andover Historical Society's third annual book sale will take place next weekend, Friday, June 24, and Saturday, June 25, on the lawn at the society's House and Barn Museum, 97 Main St., from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Friday and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, a variety of old and new books will be sold to benefit the society's educational programs.

Programs for children and adults take place in the afternoons and evenings, weekdays and weekends. Call the office at 475-2236 for a program calendar or pick one up at the book sale.

Books about art and antiques, history, cooking, gardening and travel are some of the most popular included in the sale. Mysteries and science-fiction appeal to many, especially for summertime reading. Most books will be priced at $1 or less. Old books cost more.

The Andover Historical Society is a non-profit educational and cultural organization.

Bike Committee has 10-mile ride

There will be a 10-mile bicycle ride through West Andover Sunday, June 19, starting in front of West Elementary School on Beacon Street at 3 p.m., going to the Merrimack River and back. It will be an easy-to-moderate ride, suitable for families. Bike helmets are required. Dan McGrath will be the leader. Call him at 470-1579.

The Andover Bicycle Committee will hold a meeting Wednesday, June 22, at 7 p.m. at town offices. The agenda will include discussion of a cross-town bike route, plans for summer rides and other issues related to bicycling in Andover. People enthusiastic about bicycling are encouraged to attend.

For information, call Jerry Sabath at 475-1159, or Mr. McGrath.

Third annual South Church Steeple Chase road race set

The third annual South Church Steeple Chase road race and fun walk is shaping up to be an even bigger event than last year, according to organizers. On the morning of Saturday, June 18, at 8:30, more than 200 runners and walkers will leave the starting line in front of South Church and begin the five-kilometer trek that will take them around Spring Grove Cemetery and back to the church. The first 200 entrants will receive a South Church Steeple Chase T-shirt, and all participants will take part in a breakfast of pancakes, juice, coffee and yogurt after the race.

There will be trophies for the overall first, second- and third-place finishers in the male and female categories and for the first two finishers in the age groups 10 and under, 11-13, 14-17, 18-29, 30-39, 40-49, 50-59 and over 60. There are several age groupings for younger participants, to have more young people under 17 give this manageable distance a try.

Because it is Father's Day weekend, there will be trophies for the top father-son and father-daughter combined-time winners.

Anyone who shows up at South Church before 8:15 on race day may enter. The entry fee is $12 for those who sign up the day of the race. The fee includes the T-shirt (for the first 200 entrants) and the breakfast.

Entry forms may be obtained at South Church or from race director Bob MacDougal. Call him at 475-1652.

demonstrated throughout his career," Mr. Rogers said.

Helen Rubenstein, a long-time friend and graphic artist at the Townsman, said, "He was always charming and in good humor."

"His high standards really helped the Townsman achieve the level of success it has today," she said.

Bertha Folley, who worked at the Townsman with Mr. DeRuisseau in the early '50s, said, "He was the nicest gentleman, just like one of the family for me, he and his wife."

While the Townsman was under Mr. DeRuisseau's direction the paper received many citations of excellence from the New England Press Association (NEPA).

Mr. DeRuisseau was a member of NEPA since its inception in the early 1950s. He was elected as one of two directors in Massachusetts in 1971, and served for three terms.

He was awarded the Annual President's Award for his work with the Andover Chamber of Commerce Merchant Task Force.

Mr. DeRuisseau was born in Lawrence. He received his education in local schools and graduated from Lawrence High School.

He served in the U.S. Army during World War II. He retired from the military after 25 years in the Army Reserves, achieving the rank of lieutenant colonel.

His family said he enjoyed sailing and was a member of the North Cove Yacht Club in Derry, N.H. He also enjoyed golfing.

Mr. DeRuisseau attended St. Augustine Church, Tower Hill.

Members of his family include his son, Douglas J. DeRuisseau of New Jersey.

He was the widower of Alice (Cashman) DeRuisseau.

A Mass will be celebrated today, Thursday, 10 a.m. at St. Augustine Church, Tower Hill. Burial will be at a later date in Immaculate Conception Cemetery in Lawrence. Calling hours are scheduled for Wednesday, June 15, 7-9 p.m., Pollard Funeral Home in Methuen.

Unitarians discuss 'Male Spirit' in service

"Male Spirit" will be the Father's Day theme of the 10:30 worship service at the Unitarian Universalist Congregation in Andover, 6 Locke St., downtown. Several men of the congregation will present their views of spirituality accompanied by supporting music and readings.

The idea that there are divergent spiritualities for men and women is a relatively new area of exploration. Both need to attend to the insights of each for mutual understanding and support, organizers said.

Breakfast will precede the worship service, beginning at 9 a.m.

Unitarian Universalist Congregation draws from all religious traditions to help individuals find pathways to spiritual growth in community.

BrookRidge has Father's Day service

This Sunday's morning service at BrookRidge Community Church will honor fathers.

The service will include a multi-media presentation, special music written for the service and sung by recording artist Buddy Fanjoy, and a special message for dads.

BrookRidge meets at West Elementary School on Beacon Street at 10:30 a.m. All are welcome.

Child care is provided. For more information, call 682-0302.

Consider These Thoughts

by Garry A. Burke

INCORPORATING GRIEF

After the death of a loved one, many people attempt to "get over" their grief and "get on with their lives". As noble as these sentiments may be, they may be setting grieving parties up to do the impossible. That is, grief should not be viewed as an external entity that is separate from ourselves. Instead, grief is an emotional coloration that we work through and integrate into our being. We can no more separate ourselves from our grief and put it behind us than we can isolate ourselves from our experiences. In fact, death is one more life experience that we incorporate into our perception. As a result of having experienced grief, we may heal and recover with it as an accepted part of ourselves.

Behavioral scientists who study grief are finding many different kinds of feelings and various intensities in bereavement. The age of the person who died makes a difference as well as the kind of relationship you had with that special person. For more information about dealing with grief, contact BURKE FUNERAL HOME at 475-5200. You'll find us conveniently located at 390 North Main Street. We wish you a happy Father's Day!

QUOTE: "Never does a man know the force that is in him till some mighty affection or grief has humanized the soul".

Helen Rafton Active in AVIS

Helen (Grayson) Rafton, 96, formerly of Andover, died Tuesday, June 14, at her residence in Manchester-by-the-Sea.

A resident of Andover from 1928 to 1982, after which she moved to Manchester-by-the-Sea, Ms. Rafton was active in many local organizations, but none more so than the Andover Village Improvement Society (AVIS), of which and her husband, Harold, were honorary lifetime members.

Ms. Rafton was born in New York City, daughter of the late Albert S. and Charlotte (Frank) Grayson. She received her bachelor's degree from Barnard College in 1918 and was awarded a Ph.D. in chemistry from Bryn Mawr in 1922.

In 1922, she also became an associate chemical director of Rafton Laboratories Inc., as well as a group of related companies engaged in research on problems of the paper industry, which resulted in her obtaining several patents.

She was a member and, at one time, director of the American Humanist Association, a member of the American Ethical Union, the International Humanist Ethical Union, past president of the League of Women Voters of Andover, past treasurer of the League of Women Voters of Massachusetts, a member of the Appalachian Mountain Club, the Andover Historical Society, the November Club of Andover and a Fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. In 1973 she and her husband received the first Outstanding Conservationist Award from the Massachusetts Department of Natural Resources.

Harold Rafton, in explaining his wife's very active participation in AVIS, once said, "My wife was president of the League of Women Voters. She liked action."

AVIS began as a civic beautification project in 1894 and, other than the acquisition of the 23-acre Indian Ridge property in 1915, remained that way until the 1950s, when Mr. and Ms. Rafton began a push for the town to buy and preserve open space.

"There was not a lot of support for that kind of thing in the 1950s," Peggy Keck, a current AVIS trustee, said in a recent Townsmen story about AVIS.

By 1978, in large part due to the Raftons' perseverance, the organization owned 800 acres in town.

The 226-acre Harold R. Rafton Reservation, off High Plain Road, is named after her husband.

The Raftons also established the Rafton Conservation Scholarship, which consisted of a two-week term at a summer conservation camp, all expenses paid.

Ms. Rafton leaves her daughter, Eleanor (Harold) Gordon of Deerfield Beach, Fla.; a grandson, Alan R. Gordon of Londonderry, N.H., and four great-grandchildren.

There will be no visiting hours. Graveside services will be private.

In lieu of flowers, memorial remembrances may be sent to the Andover Village Improvement Society, P.O. Box 5097, Andover, 01810.

been contacted by a lawyer for the family.

Ms. Dyer also said the National Transportation and Safety Board will be filing a missing plane report and assigning an investigator to the case.

Disappeared from radar

Mr. Marden and his son were en route from Lawrence Municipal Airport in North Andover to Nantucket on Monday, June 6, when the borrowed, six-seat Beechcraft Sierra single-engine plane Mr. Marden was considering buying apparently had engine trouble.

He had taken off at 2:40 p.m., for what should have been a roughly 1-1/4-hour, 101-mile flight to Nantucket Memorial Airport. But at 3:42 p.m. he radioed Cape Approach at Otis Air National Guard Base on Cape Cod and reported having engine trouble and said he would have to ditch into the water.

"So he was on radar and they were tracking him for a period - just a few minutes," Ms. Dyer said.

The plane disappeared from the radar at about 800 feet and 6-8 miles northwest of Nantucket. One report said the crew of a Coast Guard Falcon jet that happened to be in the area picked up an emergency-locator signal from the plane briefly, but then the signal disappeared. Ms. Dyer could not confirm that report, but said the emergency locator devices do not work underwater.

Within five minutes of the distress call, the Falcon jet flew over the location, but could not spot the plane. A 41-foot boat from Brant Point Coast Guard Station on Nantucket "screamed" out of Nantucket Harbor, "which they never do," according to Steve Scannell who works next to the station. The boat arrived on the scene about 15 minutes later, but also found nothing. At about 8 p.m., the Coast Guard found an unzipped guitar case floating in the water. It was positively identified as belonging to Christopher. In one pocket of the case were some of his sheet music, notebooks and some picks.

Search halted

Heavy fog hampered searchers the next day, Tuesday, June 7, but Wednesday morning, June 8, commercial pilots out of Hyannis spotted a fuel slick in the area the Coast Guard had been searching.

"A lot of ships dump out there - pump out their bilges and such - but usually when they dump out it's a long sheen," said Roger Charbonneau, a pilot of Island Air Inc. "This was a round one."

The sheen was bigger the second time around, Mr. Charbonneau said. Another pilot, flying in front of Mr. Charbonneau, saw the sheen first and also reported it.

Chief Bruce Watts of Nantucket Fire Department was in one of three boats that converged on the sheen Wednesday. The tide was slack and the seas relatively calm, and members of the search team were able to stick their fingers in it and feel it and smell it, and the consensus among them was that the sheen had been caused by aviation fuel.

This is Brant Point Coast Guard Station on Nantucket Harbor. The 41-foot Coast Guard utility boat that was first on the scene Monday, June 6, is based here.

"It was very light, like aviation fuel," the chief said.

Chief Watts said they found a spot where they could see fuel bubbling up from below the surface, and they marked that spot with an anchor. Volunteer divers from an island dive shop then made three passes over the spot with a fathometer, a sonar device, and detected a hump on the bottom.

"We had a good reading," a hump coming up 3 1/2 feet, said Phil Osley, owner of The Sunken Ship dive shop and the one who organized the divers. But when they went into the water searching for it, they couldn't find anything.

The divers went down to the bottom, anchored a 200-foot line on a center point, and swept around the point in a huge circle, hoping the line would catch the plane and bring the diver back to it. They did this in two spots.

"If there was anything on the bottom, we would have caught it," Mr. Osley said. "Both times, nothing."

Then the wind and tides picked up and, along with all the dragging, the visibility in the water became very limited. Chief Watts said that at one point visibility under the water "improved" to eight feet.

"Visibility on the bottom was terrible," the chief said.

The divers were searching in an area where the depth of the water ranged between 33 and 57 feet, the chief said. They searched from about 11 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. before quitting Wednesday.

The Coast Guard suspended its search Wednesday afternoon after searching more than 2,000 square miles, about twice the size of Rhode Island. The divers had planned to go out again at slack tide early Thursday morning, but wind prevented them from going until 11:30, and this time they couldn't find the hump again.

They stayed out until 3:30 p.m., "with no luck at all," Chief Watts said.

Chief Watts said Friday his department was also discontinuing the search.

"If someone saw some debris or if we saw another oil slick, we would be back out there, but it's like looking for a needle in a haystack," the chief said.

He said the tides were moving at about two knots and that the plane, if it is there, is moving around.

"What they think it's doing is bouncing along the bottom," Chief Watts said. "We're just waiting now. We've exhausted everything. We even had grappling hooks trying to grab onto something on the bottom."

The search area was located between Great Point and where the Steamship Authority boats go through to Hyannis, according to the chief. It took about 16 minutes to reach the area from Nantucket. "So not far at all," the chief said.

The fire department dispatched four-wheel drive vehicles to search the entire beach along the Nantucket Sound side of the island, from Madaket to Great Point.

"We're ready to work with the family, like we were when it first happened," Chief Watts said Saturday.

But he said the reality is that unless someone is willing to pay for an extensive search, his department will wait until some new evidence regarding the plane's location turns up.

"Anybody sees any debris in that area, we'll be Johnny-on-the-spot. We'll be right on it," Chief Watts said. "We just can't go out there for a boat ride."

Mr. Osley said there is better sonar equipment that could search a larger area, but that equipment is expensive. The consensus among those involved in the search, and others on Nantucket last weekend, was that eventually the plane will be picked up by fishermen using dragger nets.

"Everything - everything - finds its way into their nets," Mr. Osley said.

He also said he feels badly for the Marden family.

"I have a son who's 15, so I'm really sympathetic to what's going on," Mr. Osley said.

Coast Guard spokesperson Chief George Jespersen, at the Woods Hole station, said Sunday morning that a pilot did report seeing a wing of a plane in the vicinity of the Coast Guard search area at 4:52 p.m. Thursday, which is after the divers had knocked off, but that on a second pass from a lower altitude the pilot was not able to see the wing again. The pilot said the wing seemed to be a bit north of where the slick was and where the divers had been searching, and about "one-quarter mile east of a buoy," Chief Jespersen said.

"That's right where it should be," Phil Osley, owner of the dive shop, said when he heard about the later sighting. Mr. Osley said his divers would still probably wait for something to be found.

Friends and associates

The weekend before Mr. Marden disappeared, Mr. Doherty and Mr. Marden had gone to the island to run the Cranberry Classic 10k Road Race on Saturday, June 4. One of their friends, Terri Anne McGettrick, formerly of Andover and now of North Andover, was the first woman finisher in the race. Mr. Marden finished the race in 43 minutes and 44 seconds, just behind Island, describe him as an extraordinary musician, loyal friend and honor-roll student at Governor Dummer Academy in Byfield.

"Chris was quiet, but if you knew him he was one of those people who was always there. He was a quiet force," said Lauren Abernathy, Governor Dummer sophomore and classmate from Topsfield. She spoke of the hand that Chris reached out to her in friendship when she was a new student in the fall.

"He put everything in perspective for me. We became quick friends. He was funny and witty," said Ms. Abernathy.

She said that during the school year he continued his friendship, advising her to

Mr. Doherty.

Mr. Marden flew back from the island on Sunday and spent Sunday night in Andover. He and Christopher were scheduled to stay on the island a few days, but were planning to return to Andover before this past weekend.

Although Mr. Marden had some business on the island, Mr. Doherty said the Nantucket home was a place for Mr. Marden to get away.

"This was really his vacation house," Mr. Doherty said. "This was more of a place to come to, not work."

The house, which sits on 2.8 acres and has a beach on the harbor, is on the market for $1.95 million, according to a real estate listing. It is also rented for parts of this summer.

Mr. Doherty said he is anxious to know what caused the crash.

"Reg is an eminently competent pilot and I have every faith in his ability to fly the aircraft and make all the right judgments, both before departure and in the air. It's a mystery to me. I'd like to see it not a mystery," Mr. Doherty said. "His abilities were way in excess of what was needed to fly that craft."

Kevin Dale, a Nantucket attorney, has known Mr. Marden for the last eight years, as an acquaintance and professionally.

"It was really unexpected," Mr. Dale said of Mr. Marden's disappearance.

Mr. Marden did some work on the island in municipal law and in real estate with permitting and such, according to Mr. Dale. That work is the same type of work he did in Andover.

"I worked with him on a liquor license," helping a restaurant obtain a seasonal wine and beer license, Mr. Dale said. "I always found him to be pleasant and competent and a very good attorney."

Phil Aviles, owner of the American Bounty restaurant at the Tuckernuck Inn on Nantucket, said Mr. Marden helped him negotiate his lease.

"You can say he was my friend," Mr. Aviles said as he washed dishes while waiting for the last party to finish its meal last Saturday night. "Because I consider him to be a friend. He helped me out. He went up and above the duty of being a lawyer."

Tracy Root, who along with his wife, Susan, owns Cioppino's restaurant and bar, said he knew Mr. Marden 15 years.

"He was our lawyer and a personal friend, a very close personal friend,"

Mr. Root said. "Reg Marden was an incredibly brilliant man and one of my best friends."

Mr. Root said Mr. Marden had called him not too long ago and told him he had a great picture of himself taken while skiing at Vail two months ago and wearing a Cioppino's hat.

Mr. Root said a lawyer for Mr. Marden's family had called and asked him not to talk with the press, and Mr. Root wanted to comply with the wishes of the family. But Mr. Root said it was important for someone to keep after the Coast Guard and do whatever is necessary to find the plane and the Mardens.

Mr. Marden was reportedly scheduled to meet with Arthur Reade, another Nantucket real estate attorney, back on the island in the late afternoon Monday, June 6, according to one source involved with the search. Mr. Reade could not be reached for comment on the nature of his acquaintance with Mr. Marden, or the nature of their business.

Don Humphrey, of New York, an attorney and long-time friend of Mr. Marden, is helping Ms. Marden with family and business matters.

"Reg was my best friend. I mean I've known him 30 years," Mr. Humphrey said Tuesday of this week. "It is obviously a very difficult time for all of us and I'm sure that people can understand that."

Mr. Humphrey said his family and Mr. Marden's parents had a summer home next door to each other in New Hampshire when they were growing up.

"We go back when we were kids together," Mr. Humphrey said. "We went to Brown (University) together and we were runners together. I spent the last weekend with him."

Mr. Humphrey also ran the Nantucket road race June 4, finishing one minute behind Mr. Marden.

Nervous boaters

Boaters at some of the Nantucket marinas last weekend were leery of the boat still being in the water.

Allison Taubert, who had come to the island by boat from Yarmouth Friday night for dinner with a group of friends, said she thought about the plane and the Mardens being in the water on the ride over. She said it made her nervous to think about it.

Another woman, named Lindsay, was visiting the island with her husband on their 36-foot boat, "Diva." She had spotted debris on the sonar on the way across the sound and asked her husband if it could be the plane. He brushed it off, but said the incident has made him much more cautious about safety on the water.

Chief Watts said the whole idea of the plane still being in the water is bad business for the island, and the sooner it is found, the better.

The Sierra Mr. Marden was flying was owned by Joseph Scott of Windham, N.H., owner of Scott Construction and Vest Air, both of Haverhill. Mr. Marden, who once owned his own plane, was considering buying the Sierra and was testing it before deciding either to buy it or lease it, according to Mr. Scott.

There was initial speculation that Mr. Marden's plane may have run out of fuel, but an official at Nantucket Memorial Airport said during the weekend that Mr. Marden's plane had been fueled at Nantucket the Friday before it disappeared. Another source said the plane was fueled on the Sunday. Neither the FAA or NTSB could confirm if or when the plane had been fueled.

Mr. Marden has been flying for 15 years and received his commercial pilot's license in 1986. He is rated for single- and multi-engine aircraft and had instrument certification, which means he was trained to fly in clouds or fog. Although there was some light precipitation in the area at the time the plane disappeared, Mr. Marden was flying by visual flight rules.

Arbitration would have been better

We didn't know whether to say, "Way to go," or, "You must be kidding," when we first heard of the Andover under-14 girls youth soccer team whose assistant coach filed for an injunction against the soccer league.

For reasons we don't understand, the Essex County Youth Soccer League scheduled an important game last Friday between Andover and Marblehead on Marblehead territory. Those who understand these matters say the team that is ahead in number of games won would ordinarily have the opportunity to be the host for the game if it were to be played in any home territory. In this case, that was Andover. Of course the best solution is to locate the game on a neutral field.

But the game was scheduled to be held in Marblehead, and Andover people, justifiably so, were unhappy about that.

So the assistant coach filed an injunction, went before a judge, and the site of the game was changed to Peabody.

Still, it is too bad that the situation ended up before a judge. This society has litigious disease - before the drop of a soccer ball, in this case, we are in court - just another example of why the courts are backed up and cases don't come to trial for, well, sometimes years.

We don't mean to take away from the fact that this coach was standing up for his team. We admire that. But there must be a better way to solve such a dispute.

Kids, and these are impressionable youngsters, need to see their elders negotiating solutions, and even in some cases giving in when solutions aren't forthcoming. Otherwise, we are passing on a message about which we all complain: This society spends too much time and money in court.

A 24-hour community happening

By Perry Colmore

The selectmen brought a tent on wheels - a Winnebago, complete with blue-striped awning - in which they dined on lobster thermidor Saturday night.

AHS graduates Sean Ryan, Colin Arsenault and Tricia McNeice showed up to participate.

Debra Silberstein brought her youngest child and walked around the track for a while with him. Peg Campbell's new baby was there for a short time, too.

Candace Kim, who just graduated from Andover High, was already losing her voice by 11 a.m. Saturday. But she said, "This is so much fun. There's so much team effort."

Tim Thomas, Buzz Stapczynski and Bill Fahey, along with members of the Andover High School track team, tore around the track in good form.

Sam Campbell and Mark McQuillan spent some time chatting over the fence, between laps.

Ruby Easton was dressed in a pink T-shirt, the color for volunteers.

It was a happening, a sort of "mini Woodstock," someone called it, complete with its own Tent City.

By 9:40 a.m. Sunday, 13-year-old

Charlotte Doherty, who ran 13 miles during the 24 hours, said her legs were killing her, but she declared the event "extremely fun, awesome fun."

It was the community's first 24-Hour Relay Challenge, and it was a celebration of community and spirit - a joining of young and older, runners, walkers and scores of volunteers.

I should have joined a team. I wish I had. It would have been easier, and more fun. Because once I showed up Saturday morning to check it out, I wanted to be part of what I saw.

(Originally, the Townsmen thought it would field a team, but when we read the rules and realized we'd have to run every 10th mile, we didn't know if we could stay awake that long! Next year . . . When I saw Buzz running, he yelled a greeting: "Where's Staruk when I need him?" The town manager and Townsmen reporter Don Staruk have a friendly running rivalry).

I returned Saturday night until I was kicked out at 10 p.m. when the gates to the area were locked. And then Sunday, I returned about 9:20 a.m. to see if the group was still alive (it certainly was, though unshaven and with some red eyes and many sore muscles). I wanted to catch the closing ceremonies.

It was the first-ever 24-Hour Relay held on the East Coast, according to Dave Gangl, AHS teacher who planned the event with fellow teacher Jay Darrin and students Anne Hwang and Sarah Hamilton. People from the Burlington, Vt., public schools were there videotaping the event because they were having a 24-Hour Relay this week - the second East Coast relay.

The four had the idea for the relay last fall when they met a man from California named Rick Phillips who learned about 24-hour marathons in Cairo, Egypt. He returned to California and turned the events into a business. For $4,500 the community service budget at AHS and some community donations hired Rick Phillips' expertise, experience, forms, advice and so on, until this community was ready to put on a fund-raiser the town won't forget for some time.

Dave Gangl told me that it will take a few more days to calculate what the event made, but he was figuring clearing $9,000 to $10,000. Teams paid $500 to participate.

The group established a mini-grant program into which 40 percent of the relay profits will go. An applicant in the community can apply for a $500 grant to begin a worthwhile project. Another 40 percent of the profits go to what Jay Darrin loves to call the CIA, Council on Intergenerational Activities (the group that recently held a dance for kids and senior citizens).

The remainder of the money goes

Editor, Townsmen:

I remember when I was in grade school, my teacher assigned a project for our class to interview someone. My search went on for days, trying to find someone who would give me an interesting story to present.

One Sunday, while visiting with my grandparents, my grandfather began to tell me about his life in Andover when he was younger. At first, I listened halfheartedly, until I realized that what he was sharing with me was history, details and events I could never have known without his insight. The next day I returned with my tape recorder and questions, my project was underway.

As he reminisced, I could see in his eyes all the memories he held dear, he happily shared. Suddenly, he wasn't that "older" man my parents took me to visit anymore, but an intelligent, important person in my life.

Unknowningly, he taught me something that day, that I am just discovering now. Elders are our heritage, their words can be meaningful counsel, their experience, solid direction, if we open our minds and ears to hear them. My grandfather passed on 15 years ago, but his legacy I recorded never to be forgotten, passing from generation to generation.

Number of school days isn't the key factor

Editor, Townsmen:

Regarding your editorial on students needing more time in school: I, too, bought into the myth that our educational system was cheating our students by not having them in school long enough. [June 2, "Our students need more time in school."] However, the chart accompanying your editorial caused me to change my opinion. Certainly, the number of days in school is not the important factor, but rather the time spent in school.

If you had paid closer attention in your math classes, it would be apparent to you that the longer hours that U.S. students put in make up for much of the loss in days. In fact, the U.S. comes in third... not behind Japan... not behind Korea, but behind Taiwan and, significantly, France, which has students attend fewer days than we do. Our deadly rival, Japan, comes in dead last.

Country	Days Yr.	Hours Yr.
Taiwan	222	1177
France	174	1078
US	178	996
Italy	204	979
Korea	222	976
Germany	210	966
England	192	960
Canada	188	958
Japan	220	880

In Andover, with 180 days of six hours, we actually come in ahead of France with 1,080 hours.

Clearly, while the amount of time spent in school is important, it is not the distinguishing factor. Japanese children do better in school than the average in the U.S., because they show up prepared to learn, they are better disciplined and their parents care more about their children's education. Thus, the teachers can spend the time they do have in teaching, not performing remedial work or discipline.

Success in school will improve in the U.S. if parents become more involved in their schools, if the importance of scholarship is emphasized in our culture (rather than athletic prowess or appearance) and if children come to school wanting and able to learn.

100 Years Ago June 15, 1894

George Goldsmith received a severe cut in the palm of his hand last week, while killing cattle. He was taken to the general hospital at Boston.

G. W. W. Dove will join a party of scientists, which will leave soon for a trip to Greenland. The party will be conducted by Rev. G.F. Wright of Oberlin, formerly of town, and goes for scientific exploration.

Last Saturday evening the students of Phillips Academy celebrated the victories of their baseball nine with an old time celebration. At 8 o'clock the students formed in a body in front of the Academy and, headed by the Andover Brass Band, marched down Main Street to town, around Central and School Sts. to Abbot Academy and then to the residences of different professors who made speeches and were in turn cheered by the boys. The din of fish horns was heard for miles around, while fireworks were on the continual go. The procession finally landed on the campus, where a huge bonfire lighted up the skies, and around this the members of the nine were carried and afterwards made speeches.

A total of 87 students were awarded diplomas at the annual Pynchard graduation exercises held Tuesday evening.

Wednesday marked the closing day of the Shawsheen kindergarten, since it will not reopen in the fall. A program of songs, games, dramatization and toy orchestra was given before a large and appreciative audience.

At the annual meeting of the Nursing Committee of the Red Cross it was reported that 1635 pieces of refugee clothing, 493 Army and Navy knitted pieces, 725 hospital garments and 144 kit bags had been shipped, making a total of 2997 pieces.

Town Council Frederic J. O'Brien has ruled that the Finance committee members can not examine departmental account or meet with department heads, as originally planned by the watchdog group. The FinCom had announced its intent to look into matters during the year, subcommittees or members being assigned to review various departments. When some complaints relative to the matter were presented to the selectmen, the board asked town counsel for a ruling.

What's there for teenagers to do in Andover, now that school is out? The Curious Citizen wonders and finds it makes a big difference whether you're talking about the weekdays or the weekends. to other community-service projects.

There were 38 teams with 10 members each. Twenty teams were kids and 18 were adults. The teams were diverse: lots of teachers, school administrators, selectmen, other town officials, AHS alumni, members of both Chambers of Commerce, two middle-school teams, one business (DeWolfe) and more. There was a team called SAM Star Trek, in memory of Stephen Milmo, an AHS freshman who died April 27. SAM are his initials, and he was a Star Trek fan.

"We wanted to do something that was not just for the High School," said Dave, referring to the diverse groups.

Two groups began to compete to see which could log the most miles. Last I checked the Banished - track kids - were still adding to their 168 miles.

The selectmen and other town officials (Town Trotters) received an award for "oldest combines ages." Jerry Silverman thought that wasn't right, since he had Buzz Stapczynski, Tony Torrisi, Tom Urbelis, Steve Bordeaux, Jim Sutton, Rod Smith, Bob Barry, Chris Stucchi and Mary Donahue - all young!

Holy Family and Lawrence General hospitals were major sponsors, but other people and businesses donated money, services and more.

Jim Loscutoff brought a tepee in which the Bancroft Bumblebees slept.

Tent City was a sight. Each team was allowed one tent. That meant 10 people to a tent. Some really slept, most didn't. Mark McQuillan said he got some good sleep but he was sporting bad blisters Sunday. Tent City was set up outside of the track, in a neat orderly way with a path going down its middle.

Participants brought their own lunch, but the event (read Megan Selvitelli, Brenda O'Brien and Ruby Easton) arranged the other meals. A sleepy but still energetic Ruby told me Sunday morning that the group consumed 1,200 pounds of ice, 1,000 cans of Pepsi, "and that was just one liquid item," 400 cans of Hood OJ, "probably a similar amount of Ocean Spray juices," and plenty more. They ate a spaghetti dinner Saturday, and Sunday breakfast was pancakes, sausages, bagels, muffins and more. Ruby said Dick Barron, who heads the school lunch program, helped with the food.

By 9:25 a.m. Sunday, Jerry Sabath was running his team's final lap, and he had the energy to run, not walk. Sue Jenkins, in a baseball hat, was walking, and smiling. Her husband, Roger Jenkins, who had done the marathon with her, said Sunday he heard from an adjacent tent: "I can't move my legs."

Bob Stamm, who was with a team of neighbors and friends, said during the night he managed 20-minute naps. He said, "The kids got to see the adults suffer and the adults got to see the kids flying."

By 9:25 a.m. Sunday, Jim Stratton and Lisa Gabriel, both of whom had just graduated from AHS, were going around the track, taking baby steps, toe to toe.

Others were walking. Most teams did the last lap as a group. Town Moderator Jim Doherty showed up to tell the group what a great job it did, and to ask participants to join hands around the track.

Dave Gangi, saying thank you and good-bye over the loudspeaker at 10 a.m. Sunday, said he met a lot of people, including a selectman he hadn't known, and the town manager. "You people have proven today that we are a community."

See you at next year's 24-Hour Relay Challenge.

Paul Bekkehuis' funeral home proposal met with opposition, from over a dozen of the South Main Street residents he hopes will be his neighbors, at Tuesday night's Zoning Board of Appeals meeting. His chances don't look so good for board approval either as a tentative vote taken at the 326 South Main Street site on Saturday morning by the five Appeals Board members yielded a unanimous no.

Three or four parcels of land are being considered as sites for a new main post office that postal officials hope to build here to take the place of the Main Street office.

"separate yourself and look at the (big) picture" when uncertainties arose.

'His character ran deep'

"Chris Marden was the kind of youngster we build our future on," said Peter Bragdon, headmaster of Governor Dummer Academy, where Chris has just finished his sophomore year as a day student.

Mr. Bragdon described Chris Marden as a "remarkable young man, a high-honor student, a marvelous musician who loved the trumpet and guitar, who played in the Big Wind, the school band.

"He was quiet but performed with his actions. His character ran deep," said Mr. Bragdon.

"The more layers you pull off, the more there are."

Honor-roll student

"His papers would really show his talent," said Kim Konevich, a classmate from Lynnfield. She collaborated with Chris on a paper that recommended ways to make their school a stronger institution.

Ms. Konevich said Chris graciously helped her with Spanish assignments and was very generous with his time.

He has consistently achieved honor-roll status, said Mr. Bragdon.

A talented actor

Ms. Konevich said Chris showed great talent in the arts. He was a member of the technical crew for How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying. A member of the school's Academy Players, this winter he played a British gentleman, as the lead in Anything Goes, said Ms. Abernathy.

Band leader, accomplished musician

According to his friends, Chris Marden is a multi-talented musician excelling in both rock and classical genres.

Chris has been playing guitar with the rock band, Mr. Lizard's Traveling Circus, with musicians from Andover High School and New Hampshire.

Mark Wood, of Rocky Hill Road, an old friend and one of the four band members, said Chris joined the group last summer.

"He is kind of territorial about his guitar playing. He always wanted to be the front man, but we were pretty much equal," said Mr. Wood.

He said Chris urged the group to play more complicated tunes, and they had started to write music together for Mr. Lizard's. One of their first songs, Rodney, a song they composed about drunk driving, has been a crowd favorite, he said.

Mr. Lizard's Traveling Circus often gave jam sessions for friends in town and recently gave a concert for the Haverhill Y swim team banquet.

"This was a serious band for him. They were in the process of making a real studio tape," said Jon Stucky, a classmate from Gloucester.

Jane Livingston, a friend and classmate from North Hampton, N. H., agreed, and said Chris was beginning to make money.

At Governor Dummer, Chris was playing lead guitar, both electric and acoustic, and bass guitar with About My Infatuation. The group gave student-run concerts several times a year, doing mostly Nirvana songs, said Mr. Livingston.

Jon said that when he was a new student this year, Chris invited him to sing with About My Infatuation, and that helped him meet other students and settle in.

A well-trained and versatile musician, at school Chris also played trumpet in a classical chamber ensemble and performed with the jazz band, The Big Winds.

This past year, Chris played JV football, as an offensive guard, and JV lacrosse for his school.

Chris attended Bancroft Elementary School and Doherty Middle School. At Doherty he earned the math prize in the eighth grade and took advantage of many opportunities, said Floyd McManus, the principal.

Remembrances

"I know that when our own children return there will be immense grieving. We will in some way honor him," said Mr. Bragdon.

"The family and the school are in discussion in a way to visibly remember Chris here at school. We'll find an avenue through which gifts can be directed.

"I find I am utterly helpless to find words that do justice to this gem," said Mr. Bragdon.

"He really loved his music. It was really ironic that the only thing they found was his guitar and his music," said Jon Stucky, his friend and fellow musician.

Chris Marden playing guitar for Mr. Lizard's Traveling Circus. Other members of the band are Andover residents Corey McKinnon (bass) and Mark Wood (guitar), and New Hampshire resident Chuck Conlan (drums).

Community calendar

Did you know that the Andover Townsman keeps the Andover Community Calendar? The calendar is a listing of major local events including fund-raisers, concerts, plays and more.

The purpose of the calendar is to avoid two major events occurring on the same day. If your organization has planned an event that should be included in the Community Calendar, write it down and send it to Perry Colmore at the Townsman.

Selectmen's business

tion to correct a circulation problem in his legs. He was operated on Thursday, June 9. Mr. Downs came home Tuesday and was already mobile enough to attend a grandchild's graduation, according to his wife, Bunny.

"So, I'm up and about," Mr. Downs said Wednesday morning.

Selectmen scheduled a brief meeting for Wednesday, June 29, at 7 p.m. at town offices specifically to handle a liquor-license renewal for Village Liquors, of 4 Poor St., and other license and permit renewals.

The board's next regularly scheduled meeting will be Monday, July 11, at 7:30 p.m.

Members of the board and Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski Monday night praised organizers of the 24-Hour Relay Challenge, which was held at the Andover High School athletic track this past weekend.

"It was a great night and a wonderful event," Mr. Stapczynski said.

Selectman Larry Larsen said he'd never seen such an event that could do so much and had so much potential to bring people together.

The selectmen's group, the Town Trotters, won a plaque for its participation. The plaque was presented to "the group with the oldest combined ages."

Mr. Silverman said he didn't think they were the oldest and pointed out that their group came in fifth among groups completing the most miles (121.5).

The only complaint the town received was from one neighbor who was awakened when some students played "Do the Hokey-Pokey" loud at 3 a.m. Sunday.

While Mr. Silverman said he heard it and went to ask that it be turned down, Mr. Stapczynski, sleeping in the comfort of a Winnebago camper supplied by Selectman Larsen, never woke up. Mr. Stapczynski said more of an effort will be made next year to keep the noise down after 10 p.m., as was planned.

Superintendent reconsidering middle school teacher transfer

By Alix Driscoll

"I am reconsidering. I think I may have to make some compromises on this issue. The issue has become so divisive it may be difficult to do anything," said Mark McQuillan, superintendent of schools, referring to the proposed transfer of two teachers from Doherty Middle School to West Middle School, and the transfer of three teachers from West to Doherty.

The teachers involved are Doherty teachers Lynn Ricker and Lois Seligman; and West Middle School teachers Ann Beauchesne, Susan McClellan and John Fawcett.

Dr. McQuillan said he has been re-evaluating the transfer for the past week. In addition, he said that the transfer of two teachers involves grade-level shifts. Those teachers expressed interest in staying in their present grades.

He said he had been meeting

'I want the community to be whole, not divided.'

Superintendent Mark McQuillan.

with faculty members yesterday morning, Wednesday, and would make a final decision late Wednesday afternoon. The Townsman went to press before that decision was made.

Dr. McQuillan said his broader purpose is to improve the whole school system. He said he is looking for "diversity and I want to cross-pollinate our buildings."

He said while rotation can be a positive move, these transfers may defeat that purpose.

"I want the community to be whole, not divided," said Dr. McQuillan.

AHS suffers agonizing loss to New Bedford

By Rick Harrison

There will be a long summer of dreams.

Dreams of what might have been.

If Matt Wolcott's game-ending 315-foot fly ball to left-center had gone 10 feet further, it would have been a three-run homer and the Andover High baseball team would have carried at least a 7-6 lead into the bottom of the ninth.

If they had played the normal seven innings, instead of the nine dictated by Division 1 tournament games by the Massachusetts Interscholastic Athletic Association (MIAA), Todd Murray would have pitched a superb six-hit, six-strikeout 3-2 victory.

Instead, Wolcott's long blast was flagged down by New Bedford left fielder Trevor Moret, and Murray was roughed up for four runs in the bottom of the eighth, as the Golden Warriors were dealt an agonizing 6-4 loss in their State Division 1 semifinal round game Tuesday afternoon at Wilmington High's Alumni Field.

The defeat wrote an unhappy ending to what had become a storybook 1994 season, denying Coach Ken Maglio's team a shot at a third state title in four years.

Instead it will be defending champ New Bedford playing for the championship on Saturday, as the Whalers try to match Andover's rare feat of back-to-back titles. The Warriors became the first Division 1 school in more than three decades to annex consecutive crowns (1991, 1992).

Tuesday's Eastern Mass. championship game matched two teams who weren't expected to be in the final. Andover had ended the regular season with a lackluster 6-0 loss to Haverhill, while New Bedford scrambled to win its final two games and barely qualified at 12-8.

Five tournament victories later the Whalers are 17-8 and riding a seven-game win streak, while Andover can hold its head high and point to another strong tourney run and 18-7 final record.

Torrid pitcher's duel

For seven innings ace Murray, 11-0 entering the contest, and huge New Bedford righthander Rudy Bulgar (6'2", 230 pounds) engaged in a torrid pitcher's duel.

Murray's only major mistake was a 3-1 second-inning pitch to Whalers' DH Steve Ferreira, who deposited the ball over the right field fence 330 feet away for a two-run homer.

Otherwise the senior righthander was in control as he fanned six, walked only one and threw 85 pitches to the free-swinging Whalers.

Bulgar did not baffle the Andover hitters, striking out only two, but many balls hit on the nose went directly at New Bedford infielders who were slick and flawless.

The Golden Warriors put runners aboard in each of the first four innings.

In the opening stanza Wolcott dropped a two-out bunt single and Toby Guzowski drew the first of his two walks, while junior DH Tom Gardner (3-for-3) rapped a one-out single to center in the second. All three were left stranded.

Trailing 2-0 in the third, AHS manufactured its first run when leadoff batter Jeff Lembo beat out an infield hit, stole second, took third on Mike Maguire's groundout, and scored on Wolcott's suicide squeeze bunt.

In the fourth Bob Daley laced a single and was left at second base after advancing on Gardner's sacrifice.

Murray escaped a bases-loaded jam in the bottom of the fourth, as the Whalers clogged the sacks on Tom Rioux's infield hit, a one-out error, and Izzy Fonseca's single to center.

Catcher Paul Allard then picked Fonseca off first base, excellent plays made by both Allard and first baseman Guzowski, before the next batter grounded out to Wolcott at short.

Bulgar settled down to retire eight straight Andover batters, but the stubborn Warriors rallied for two runs in the seventh to grab a 3-2 lead.

Gardner launched the inning with a long triple down the right field line, the ball eluding diving Whalers' outfielder Joe Joupin.

With New Bedford primed for the squeeze bunt, Allard crossed them up and hoisted a sacrifice fly to center to tie the game 2-2.

Ever-dangerous catalyst Lembo drew a two-out walk, stole second, and scored the go-ahead run when Mike Maguire broke an 0-for-8 drought with a clutch single to left.

In the eighth, Murray understandably began to wilt in the 85-degree heat and oppressive humidity.

Nate Long drew New Bedford's second walk on a 3-2 pitch to open the stanza. Bulgar, after trying unsuccessfully to drop a sacrifice bunt, slapped a sharp infield grounder that was misplayed.

Rioux tied the game with a seeing-eye single to right field on another 3-2 pitch, and Joupin followed with another RBI single to give New Bedford a 4-3 lead.

Ferreira singled to load the bases and Fonseca chased Murray with a two-run double that one-hopped the left field fence.

Caverly slams door

Tim Caverly came on with runners at second and third, no one out, and did a masterful job in relief. He prevented further damage by getting the next three batters on a grounder, pop-up and routine fly to center.

Andover refused to go quietly in the ninth against freshman lefty reliever Jim LaFrancois.

LaFrancois, who replaced Bulgar in the eighth and retired the Golden Warriors 1-2-3, dug a quick hole when Gardner singled to center and Allard walked on four pitches.

He came back from a 3-1 count to whiff the next batter, and then pounced off the mound to nip Lembo by a half-step at first on an attempted bunt-for-hit.

Maguire's grounder to third produced the only Whaler error of the game, as pinch-runner Brian Tisbert scored to make it 6-4.

Wolcott then drove LaFrancois' second pitch high and deep to left-center, with the two tying runs circling the bases, but the ball was flagged down near the fence to end the game.

Wolcott had five assists at short and Allard played another exceptional defensive game behind the plate for Andover.

Murray finishes the season at 11-1.

Graduates

The Golden Warriors will be hard hit by graduation as seniors Todd Murray, Jeff Lembo, Matt Wolcott, Toby Guzowski, Paul Allard, Bob Daley, Tim Caverly and Chris Sintros suited up for the final time Tuesday.

Volleyball team seeks state title

By Rick Harrison

Some 'trash talking' by the Newton North boys volleyball team in its State Tournament quarterfinal round match against Andover was apparently all the Golden Warriors needed to catch their second wind, as the locals rallied for six of the final seven points in the fifth and deciding game en route to a pulsating 3-2 triumph last Thursday night at the Dunn Gymnasium.

"They (North) got a little cocky and began celebrating after they went ahead 11-9 in the fifth game," said Coach George Sullivan.

"But the party was a bit premature. Our kids got mad when they heard the cheap talk. They dug in and really played with determination the rest of the way."

The victory, Andover's second of the tournament, gave the locals their first 20-win season and advanced them to the State semifinal round for the first time in their history.

"We feel it's pretty significant to make the State semis in only six years," said Sullivan. "It's an accomplishment of which the kids can really be proud."

Andover, seeded No. 3 in the original 14-team field, was scheduled to face No. 2 seed Holliston (also 20-1) last night at Holliston High.

Holliston swept past Lowell 3-0 in its only previous tourney match. The Andover-Holliston survivor is expected to meet undefeated defending State champ New Bedford (20-0) for the State title.

After cruising past Latin Academy 3-0 in its tourney opener, the Golden Warriors appeared on their way to another three-game sweep over No. 5 seed Newton North.

Andover won the first game, 15-6, and the second game, 15-3, and took an early lead in the third game.

"We were kicking butt big-time," said Coach Sullivan. "We ran tandems and slides and everything was working. But then we hit a wall."

"We got a bad case of the 'third-game blues.' Everything had come so easily that our guys stopped hustling.

"We began to play too carefully. We were watching instead of hitting the ball, and we made mistake after mistake."

Newton North rallied to win the third game, 15-6, and kept the pushin the fourth game with a 15-9 triumph.

Andover led 5-0 early in the fourth game, and was locked in a 9-9 tie before the Lions closed it out with six points.

"We were playing like we were afraid to lose, instead of taking the initiative," said Coach Sullivan. "We did the same thing against New Bedford (only loss)."

"Panic set in and we messed up on a lot of the little things that win matches. Newton North likes to hit the ball wide, making their returns hard to block, and we were having trouble with that."

"Our kids forgot there are no easy teams left when you get this far in the tournament. You can't take anything for granted."

The decisive fifth game went back and forth, the lead seesawing several times before Newton North pulled ahead 11-9. That's when the visitors made the mistake of thinking they had the match clinched.

The Warriors responded to Newton's verbal challenge with three straight points, moving ahead 12-11. North scored the next point to tie, 12-12, and after several possession changes Andover closed out the quarterfinal victory with three consecutive points.

Junior Tim Foley had several key hits down the stretch and did his usual outstanding job of setting.

"Tim played a fantastic match and really sparked the comeback at the end," noted Coach Sullivan.

Foley finished with a team-high 14 kills, while other hitting standouts were senior All-Scholastic and North Alliance MVP Glenn Wilson with 10 kills, senior middle-hitter Alex Raymond nine kills and senior Captain J.P. Guerard seven kills.

Senior Jim Woodroffe contributed an excellent defensive effort.

"Hopefully we learned a valuable lesson from this match and won't let up again," concluded Coach Sullivan.

AHS track teams compete at New England championship

By Rick Harrison

Jamie Barron and the boys' 4x800 meter relay team placed fifth and sixth respectively, while two-miler Sue Ashlock set a school record, to lead the season-ending performances by Andover High tracksters at the annual New England Championship Meet hosted by Brown University in Providence, R.I.

"We had a terrific season," said Coach Dick Collins, whose girls' team won the State Class B title and tied for second in the All-State Meet. "Any time you can place in the New England you've accomplished something because the competition is so tough."

Barron, the Massachusetts State Class B and All-State champion in the long jump, finished fifth in her specialty after leaping 17'-1/2."

"I'm not sure why but all of the jumpers were off in their distances," said Coach Collins. "They were jumping into a slight head-wind, but aside from that there's no explanation. The facility at Brown was fine."

Ms. Barron didn't have much luck, either.

She was also a member of the AHS girls' 4x100 meter sprint relay team, whose race was run simultaneous to the long jump competition.

"We spent seven hours at the meet, including more than three hours after we arrived before any of our athletes competed. And it just happened Jamie's two events were run at the same time," said Coach Collins.

"It's nobody's fault. Just the luck of the draw in track. But the poor kid was a basket case going back and forth between the two events. It may have affected her performance. But she was terrific considering the adverse conditions."

Sophomore Randi Spiegel, junior Amy Levesque and senior Captain Stacey Laviole joined Barron on the 4x100 relay team, which ran 50.3 but did not score.

After flirting with the girls' school record in the two-mile all season, Ashlock shattered it by plenty when the sophomore sensation clocked 11:07.6 and finished seventh.

"She led the race most of the way until the final two laps," said Coach Collins. "There had been some dispute over the old school record time, but she (Ashlock) knocked nine seconds off her previous best and left no doubt about who has the record now. It's quite a feat for a sophomore."

Ashlock placed fifth in the All-State Meet to qualify for the New England.

Levesque, third in the All-State Meet, competed in the 200 meter dash but did not reach the finals.

The AHS boys' 4x800 meter quartet, third at the All-States, ran two seconds slower and placed sixth at Brown. Senior Rick Crispo and juniors Mark Adams, Kevin Shepard and Matt Ely were clocked in 8:09.1 in the New England after running a school record 8:07.2 the previous week at Bridgewater State College.

Ely, who ran a swift 1:58.3 anchor leg in the relay, also clocked 2:00.1 in the individual 800 meter race. He placed second in his heat but did not score.

Decathlon

Three AHS athletes were scheduled to compete in the annual two-day State Decathlon this week.

Versatile junior Rebecca Goldenberg represented the Andover girls in action at Weston High, while juniors Jon Hall and Matt Ely were the Golden Warrior boys' entrants in competition at Masconomet Regional in Topsfield.

MVC All-Conference

Andover High girls selected for the MVC All-Conference track team are Jamie Barron (long jump and 100 meters), Eveline Yang (triple jump), Stacey Laviole (100-meter high hurdles), Sue Ashlock (two-mile) and the 4x100 meter sprint relay foursome of Randi Spiegel, Amy Levesque, Barron and Laviole.

Lady Warriors named to the MVC Large School Division All-Star squad are Amy Baker, Missy Famiglietti, Carolyn Valle, Abby Clarke, Sarah Witman, Amy Levesque, Rebecca Goldenberg, Julie Rozopoulos, Amanda Verreault and Robin Lapointe.

Andover boys chosen All-Conference are Dave Jorgenson (110-meter high hurdles) and Charlie Russo (mile).

MVC Large School All-Stars are Adam Westaway, Jon Hall, Matt Ely and Rick Crispo.

Tennis teams fought for the state championships

By Rick Harrison

The Andover High boys' and girls' tennis teams completed their 1994 seasons several matches sooner than either would have liked, as both were ousted from the Eastern Mass. Division 1 North Tournament last week.

However, despite the Lady Warriors' 4-1 loss to Concord-Carlisle and the AHS boys' 4-1 defeat to Newton South, the Merrimack Valley Conference champions can number themselves among the Massachusetts high school elite.

The girls were stopped in the North Sectional championship final, just three victories shy of a State title.

The boys were eliminated in the North semifinal, four wins from a State crown.

The No. 1 seed Concord-Carlisle girls (18-0), four-time reigning State champs, were scheduled to play Central Mass. champ Algonquin Regional of Northboro this week with the winner expected to meet Brookline for the State title.

The Newton South boys had little time to enjoy their victory before top-seed St. John's Prep of Danvers (19-0) sent them packing, 4-1, in the North final.

Records

The previously-undefeated AHS girls finished the season at 18-1, including earlier tourney wins over Newton South (3-2 in quarterfinals) and Winchester (4-1 in semifinals).

The Andover boys checked out at 19-2 overall, including a 3-2 quarterfinal round victory over Burlington High. The only other loss was in the non-league regular-season finale against St. John's Prep (5-0).

Coach Tony Russo's Lady Warriors completed the regular campaign by capturing their fifth straight league title and eighth championship in the last nine years.

The AHS girls have won 65 league matches in a row since a 3-2 loss to Lowell on May 21, 1990. They are 138-1 in their last 139 MVC matches and 150-9 over the last 159 including tournament play.

Coach Mike Wartman's AHS boys won their eighth league title in the last 10 years. They have captured 36 straight league matches and are 155-9 in their last 184 MVC matches and 181-20 in their last 201 overall including tournaments.

Freshman No. 2 singles player Heather Young (17-1 record) was the lone winner for the Lady Warriors, whose championship hopes were ended by C-C for the second straight year.

Young had little trouble dispatching the Patriots' Pam Hurwitch 6-2, 6-1, as she completed an impressive first varsity season undefeated in league and team tournament play. Her only loss came in the Eastern Mass. Individual Tournament.

Junior Jen Griffin and Captain Alison Georgian waged valiant fights in the other two singles matches.

Griffin (9-3) was beaten in straight sets by Nikki Willard at third singles, but both were close as Willard prevailed 7-5 and 6-4.

Georgian had trouble with Concord No. 1 Neely Steinberg in the first set, losing 0-6, but carried the second set to a tiebreaker before losing (7-6). Georgian had the early advantage in the tiebreaker but eventually bowed, 7-5.

Georgian, who finished this season 15-2 overall and won close to 50 matches during her AHS career, had been undefeated in MVC and team tournament matches prior to this loss.

The three-time MVC Player-of-the-Year sustained her only other 1994 defeat to State finalist Elisa Banner of Bedford in the Eastern Mass. North Sectional Individual Tournament semifinals.

Steinberg is ranked eighth in the New England Lawn Tennis Association (NELTA) 16-year-old 'A' Division.

The Dual County League champions were dominant in doubles, with their No. 1 tandem of Alyssa Pattle and Molly Preble stopping Andover's Jackie LeMaitre and Andrea Marvin 6-2, 6-4.

Junior LeMaitre and sophomore Marvin finished the season with a 11-2 overall record.

C-C's second duo of Caroline Bing and Danielle Driscoll also converted the big shots en route to a 6-2, 6-1 triumph over Andover senior Captain Laura Cavicchi and junior Kelly Mitchell.

The tradition-rich C-C girls' program has produced four straight State titles and nine in the last 10 years, making the Lady Patriots a legitimate Massachusetts interscholastic dynasty.

This battle was much closer than the final score, as the Golden Warriors dropped a pair of three-setters and carried another match to a double tiebreaker.

The lone AHS point was registered by senior Captain Adam Monahan (15-3 overall record) at third singles. He dropped a first-set tiebreaker to the Tigers' Jamie Horowitz, 6-7, before rallying for 6-2 and 6-4 victories in the final two sets.

Sophomore Mike Stein (16-3) jumped out to a lead with a 6-4 triumph over South's Justin Hom at second singles, but Hom then bounced back to tie the match, 6-2, and win the deciding third set, 7-5.

In doubles, Dual

County League runner-up Newton South earned a hard-fought point when Luke Domrowski and Josh Bloom outlasted senior Captain Jon Iarrobino and sophomore Kurt Dahlstrand 6-3 in the third set. Iarrobino and Dahlstrand (15-3) had bounced back from a 3-6 first-set loss to pull even with a 6-4 victory in the second set.

Andover senior Will Hall and sophomore Andy Ravens (6-3) dropped a pair of tiebreakers at second doubles, bowing to Dave Klein and Josh Beer of Newton South 7-6, 7-6.

Warriors came with hope, but few expectations

During the past half-dozen years, Andover High has established itself as perhaps the No. 1 baseball school in Massachusetts by winning 132 of 153 games, two State titles and four Eastern Mass. Division 1 North championships.

The 1994 Golden

Warriors' varsity nine did nothing to damage that standing after it captured the fourth EMass. North crown since 1990 with recent tournament victories over Revere, Malden and Boston Latin High.

Tuesday's 6-4 loss to New Bedford in the State semifinal did nothing to diminish the respect Andover baseball now commands.

The latest tournament run was fun while it lasted.

Two excellent long-relief stints by Captain Matt Wolcott, another tough mound performance by Todd Murray and a hitting bug that infected every bat in the lineup keyed the roll to the latest North title.

The clincher was a 7-5 triumph over Boston Latin last Saturday afternoon in the championship game at Wilmington High's Alumni Field.

Neither team was expected to be around for the final, with Andover seeded (Continued on page 54)

No. 6 and Latin (16-7 record) No. 9 when the tourney started.

Prior to taming the Wolfpack, the Golden Warriors had 46 runs and 65 hits in their first three tournament wins over Newton South (13-0, 18 hits), Revere (25-9, 29 hits) and Malden (8-5, 18 hits).

Few would have expected such an outburst after Andover managed just one run and a handful of basehits in its last two regular season games, a 1-0 victory over Lawrence and disappointing 6-0 loss to Haverhill that cost AHS a share of a fifth straight Merrimack Valley Conference Large School title. Cohesive unit

"The Haverhill game was a complete downer," said Coach Ken Maglio. "The kids were up late the night before (winning the Lawrence Invitational Tournament under the lights at Mark Devlin Field), and they just couldn't get motivated again that quickly, even though the league title was on the line."

"The players became a more cohesive group the day the tourney started. You could feel the difference in the dugout. There was more emotion and a positive attitude, much stronger than at the end of the season."

"Playing in the MVC all year prepare a team for the tournament," continued Coach Maglio. "Every game in the league is tough. If you can get through the regular season and qualify you can be competitive with any team in the state."

"We saw good pitching in the tournament, despite the big scores. But we hit good pitching all spring (.340 team average)," said Coach Maglio. "We didn't expect Boston Latin to be in the North final. I think everyone was looking at Arlington as the team to beat (until Latin bounced the Spy Ponders in the semis)."

Winning the North title placed Andover in the State's Final Four once again, two victories from a third State Division 1 championship in four years (back-to-back titles in 1991 and 1992).

Three years ago the Golden Warriors edged Milford 3-2 at Holy Cross to win their first state crown, and the following season they blasted West Boylston 16-0 at Fino Field in Milford.

This year, however, they were denied by defending champ New Bedford.

New Bedford earned its berth opposite Andover with a 7-6 victory over Bridgewater-Raynham in the South Division 1 title game.

"New Bedford started the season 7-0 and then something happened," said Coach Maglio. "But whatever it was must have been corrected because they're playing very good baseball once again."

Records

Andover finished another successful campaign with an 18-7 overall record.

Coach Maglio's two-year varsity ledger is a flashy 38-9, and since 1989 Andover High is 132-21 overall in varsity baseball games with

Maguire record

Before being colared in an 0-for-5 day against Boston Latin left-hander John Hauck, junior Mike Maguire broke Bob Sheehan's school record for hits in a season when he lashed four against Malden in the North semifinal victory.

Maguire emerged from that contest 24-for-32 over a blistering seven-game stretch (.750). He had tied Sheehan's 1992 record of 39 hits with four in the previous romp over Revere.

Maguire, the MVC batting champion, finished the year with 44 hits and a .500 average.

REMOVE PROBLEMS

In today's high-tech automobile, the failure of an engine sensor can lead to rough running. A case in point involves the oxygen (O₂) sensor that measures the amount of oxygen in the exhaust gases. Mounted on the exhaust manifold, the oxygen sensor uses this measurement to set the proper fuel/air mixture. The use of contaminated fuel or an overly rich fuel mixture can cause an oxygen sensor to foul, thereby blocking the electric current that it needs to function. As a result, a car with a fouled oxygen sensor might display hesitation, poor fuel economy, and black exhaust smoke. Once the problem of the fouled oxygen sensor is found, the auto technician will likely further investigate the factors that caused it to foul.

Today's vehicles have very complex computerized systems. At NASSAR FORD, our service technicians are trained to repair even the most complex engines. We feel that with technology changing at such a rapid pace it is impossible to keep up-to-date unless you have constant training and information available. Our technicians constantly upgrade their skills by attending seminars and schools. All of this training is important to us to make sure you get the best quality automotive service. We also have a large inventory of new and used cars and trucks. Our prices are more than competitive. See this newspaper on a regular basis for our super price specials, or come visit us at 320 S. Broadway in Lawrence (688-6904). Our service department is open Monday through Friday from 7:00 A.M. to 5:30 P.M. Happy Father's Day!

HINT: A fouled oxygen sensor may be caused by a weak ignition spark or a clogged fuel line.

INCIDENTS

Tuesday, June 8 - At 1:35 a.m., an Olympia Way man requested assistance removing a bat from his bedroom. No bat was found.

At 4:01 p.m., a 209A restraining order violation was reported on Seten Circle.

At 9:54 p.m., a 209A restraining order was served on Jenkins Road.

Friday, June 10 - At 3:59 p.m., a motorist reported his car window was smashed while driving through Harold Parker State Forest.

At 5:58 p.m., an 8-year-old boy was reported bitten by a dog owned by a Wild Rose Drive resident.

At 11 p.m., an emergency 209A restraining order was served on an Andover Street resident.

Saturday, June 11 - At 6:37 p.m., a 35-year-old man was placed in protective custody for alleged drunkenness on Foster Circle.

Monday, June 13 - At 8:40 a.m., an Avery Lane woman reported her son was bitten by a dog over the weekend.

ACCIDENTS

Tuesday, June 7 - At 1:47 p.m., a minor accident was reported near Andover Animal Hospital on Lowell Street.

Wednesday, June 8 - At 11:21 p.m., a car struck a tree near 47 Harold Parker Road.

Thursday, June 9 - At 11:02 a.m., a woman reported her car was struck in the municipal lot Wednesday night.

At 12:20 p.m., an accident was reported at 435 North Main St.

At 2:16 p.m., Patrolman Charles Heseltine was injured when his police motorcycle crashed into a pickup truck on Central Street. Officer Heseltine bruised his right hip and scraped his knee and elbow, but was expected to be back at work by the end of this week.

According to Sgt. William MacKenzie, Patrolman Bob Cronin was with Officer Heseltine on the other police motorcycle heading up Central Street, northbound, behind a pickup truck and a car. The pickup truck began to turn right into Central Lane, near South Church, and the car stopped short. Officer Cronin veered left around the car. Officer Heseltine veered right around the car, then laid the bike down on its right side as he approached the side of the pickup truck. The bike struck the tailpipe and rear left tire of the pickup. Officer Heseltine's injuries were caused by his sliding with the bike. Sgt. MacKenzie said the two bikes were traveling about 28-30 mph at the time of the crash.

"There wasn't any speed involved at all," Sgt. MacKenzie said.

No citations were issued. The driver of the car stopped, but then left the scene before police could get his name. The police motorcycle had damage to the front fork, fender and front fender.

Friday, June 10 - At 7:43 p.m., a video-cassette recorder was reported taken in a house break on Moreland Avenue.

Saturday, June 11 - At 4:09 a.m., a McKenney Circle resident reported someone had just driven off in his GMC Jimmy. His wife called back a few minutes later and said someone had also been in the house. Patrolmen Rick Edson, Craig Poirier and Edward Higgenbottom responded to the Route 495 and Route 133 area and spotted the vehicle. They pursued it on Route 495 south to Route 133, where the suspect abandoned the car and fled into the woods near Highwood Office Park in Tewksbury. Tewksbury and state police were called and Lowell police assisted with a K-9 patrol, but the suspect was not found.

Sunday, June 12 - At 1:25 a.m., a car break was reported at Andover Country Club on Canterbury Street.

At 9:13 p.m., stereo equipment valued at $3,000 to $4,000 was reported taken in a car break at Grill 93 on River Road.

Andover Early Childhood Development Center

Andover Early Childhood Development Center is busy preparing for their Summer Camp program for July and August. There are still some openings available. Children may be signed up by the week, month or on a drop off basis. A varied program is planned with a different theme each week. Field trips are also planned for this program. Throughout the summer, the Center is equipped with wading pools, playground with swings, sand-box, computer and much more. Hours are 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. with extended care hours of 6:15 a.m. to 6:15 p.m. For further information call to request a brochure.

Sign-ups are also being taken to reserve a place for preschool with extended care in the fall. Andover Early Childhood Development Center serves children from two years and nine months to seven years. Flexibility that serves the best interests of the children and parents is a major factor in the success of this program. Parent involvement and participation in the program is encouraged.

Andover Early Childhood Development Center's success is attributable to the qualified staff's (all OFC certified) devotion, experience and enjoyment of preschool age children. They strive to provide each child with a positive and educational preschool experience. All staff members are trained in First Aid and CPR, and attend continuing education programs for preschool and day care providers on a regular basis.

Andover Early Childhood Development Center is located at 274 Lowell Street (Rte. 133) in Andover. Hours are Monday through Friday 6:15 a.m. to 6:15 p.m.

Call Director Kathy Zagarella to schedule an appointment to visit the school at (508) 475-9000.

The full text of the proposed amendment may be examined in the Planning Department between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday, June 9 & 16, 1994

TOWN OF ANDOVER

PUBLIC HEARING

Notice is hereby given under Chapter 138 of the General Laws, as amended that, Cohlho, Inc. d/b/a Village Liquors 574 Central Street Lowell, Massachusetts, has applied for transfer of an All-Alcoholic Beverage Package Store License, presently held by Village Liquors, Inc., 4 Poor Street, Andover, MA. George D. Oliveria, 574 Central Street, Lowell, Massachusetts will be the designated manager.

MORTGAGEE'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE

By virtue and in execution of the Power of Sale contained in a certain mortgage given by Libby A. and Joanne M. Fusco to Boston Private Bank & Trust Company dated April 4, 1988 and recorded with Essex Northern District Registry of Deeds in Book 2704, Page 321, of which mortgage the undersigned is the present holder, for breach of the conditions of said mortgage and for the purposes of foreclosing, the same shall be sold at Public Auction at 11:00 o'clock a.m. on the 13th day of July, 1994 on the mortgaged premises being known as 3 Worthen Place, Andover, Essex County Massachusetts, and all singular the premises described in said mortgage, to wit:

The land with the buildings thereon situated on the Southeasterly side of Worthen Place, Andover, Essex County, Massachusetts and shown as Lot 39 on a plan entitled "Andover Country Club - Section I Plan of Land in Andover, Mass. Scale: 1"=40' Apr. 18, 1986 Dana F. Perkins & Assoc. Inc., Civil Engineers & Surveyors, Lowell & Reading, Mass. Owner: Cormier-Anderson, Inc. John KI II & Ke Sook Kim" which plan is recorded with Essex North District Registry of Deeds as Plan Number 10324, and reference may be had to said plan for a more particular description.

Said Lot 39 contains 24,103 square feet according to said plan. Reserving to the grantor, its successors and assigns, the fee in Worthen Place but granted to the grantees, their heirs, successors and assigns, the right to pass and repass over Worthen Place and to use said Worthen Place as public ways are used in the Town of Andover, together with all others entitled thereto.

Being the same premises conveyed by deed recorded with Essex North District Registry of Deeds in Book 2225 Page 305.

Subject to easements, restrictions, conditions and reservations of record to the extent the same are in force and applicable. The mortgagee reserves the right to postpone the sale to a later date by public proclamation at the time and date appointed for the sale and to further postpone at any adjourned sale date by public proclamation at the time and date appointed for the adjourned sale date.

Said premises shall be sold subject to and with the benefit of all restrictions, easements, improvements, outstanding tax titles or taking, federal and state tax liens (and any right of redemption associated therewith), mortgages, liens, rights of tenants and parties in possession, unpaid taxes, municipal liens and other public taxes, assessments or liens, having priority over the mortgage described herein, if any.

In the event that the successful bidder at the foreclosure sale shall default in purchasing the within described property according to the terms of this Notice of Sale and/or the terms of the Memorandum of Sale executed at the time of the foreclosure, the Mortgagee reserves the right to sell the property by Foreclosure Deed to the second highest bidder provided that the second highest bidder shall deposit with Mortgagee's attorneys, McDermott, Will & Emery, the amount of the required deposit as set forth herein within three (3) business days after written notice of default of the previous highest bidder, and title shall be conveyed to said second highest bidder within thirty (30) days of said written notice.

TERMS OF SALE: Fifteen Thousand Dollars ($15,000) shall be paid in cash or by certified check by the purchaser at the time and place of sale as earnest money. The balance is to be paid in cash or by certified check and the Deed shall be delivered within thirty (30) days of the date of the sale at the office of McDermott, Will & Emery, 75 State Street, Boston, Massachusetts.

The purchaser shall be responsible for the payment of documentary tax stamps and all recording costs.

Other terms, if any, to be announced at sale.

Recycle

DO YOU HAVE an item or items that you no longer need, but that would be useful to someone else, something you'd be willing to give away if someone would come get it? For instance: boxes, storm windows, a child's bicycle, cardboard boxes, an old set of dishes. You can list your recyclable items in the Townsman's newest classified section: "RECYCLE". (FREE of charge) It's a way to clean up your place while acknowledging the world is running out of landfill space. Simply write us listing your recyclables and we'll print them in the paper. No phone calls please.

GENERAL INFORMATION

DEADLINE: Noon Tuesday.
CANCELLATIONS: Must be received by Monday 5 p.m. No exceptions.
ERRORS: It is the advertiser's responsibility to check ads for corrections upon first insertion. The Andover Townsman will only be responsible for one incorrect ad insertion and then only to the extent that the error affects the response rate of the advertisement.

WRITING AN EFFECTIVE AD

1. Start your ad with the merchandise you are selling or service you are offering. This makes it easier for the reader to locate your advertisement.
2. Always include the price of the item you are selling. Many readers will not respond to an ad that has no price included.
3. Place yourself in the reader's position. Include specific descriptions and you will get a quicker response.

'Educate the people and they will come forward'

"I don't think either candidates had large organizations working for them. But they had a lot of people working for them, willing to send a postcard or hold a sign," said Ann Muller, who worked on both of those campaigns. "The thing is to get your vote out."

"The only change has been that in order to get the exposure to the electorate, people have to get a campaign and they have to have the money," said Mr. Doherty, a long-time observer and participant in Andover politics, now in his 17th year as town moderator.

ACE certainly had a campaign. Each of Andover's eight precincts had one or two precinct heads to coordinate the workers' efforts and approximately 26 to 30 people worked in each precinct, a number going door-to-door to talk with people first-hand, according to Ms. Muller.

"We sat down, 10 of us, constantly, to come up with the information," she said. "The precinct heads just fell into place and networked their friends."

"Look at the amount that we were doing. You have to have an organized campaign. You can't do it in an unorganized manner," said Ms. Sridhar. "I am not quite sure if it is different, very different, than what went before."

"I guess probably the first evident organized campaign with an out-and-out campaign organization with campaign money to pay for advertising and so forth was in the middle '30s," or '40s, said Mr. Doherty.

Howell F. Shepard defeated Andrew

McTernan after using workers to mount a campaign that included offers to drive people to the polls. But the Shepard election was the exception and not the rule.

"For someone who has a lot going for him in the community it's kind of tough to beat him. The only way to beat him is to have a very intense campaign," with money to spend, said Mr. Doherty. "Yes, there had been a change. Even after that (Shepard election), there was very little of it that happened at all. He was one that stands out."

However, the growing numbers and more transient nature of the Andover population may be responsible for the change.

According to Mr. Doherty, in the past a person was well known by most people in town before he or she decided to run and thus did not need much of a campaign.

"If a guy in Ballardvale wanted to run, everyone knew who he was," he said. "Today it's a different ballgame. I can't say I have anything particular against the practice because a lot of people who offer themselves for public office don't have the background that I have."

"Willey or any of those people that move into town, they have an interest. They have to have an organization to get their name and their point of view across," he said. In the past, "he probably would not have had a chance. He'd have to be very active in some civic organization or be very active in the churches or something of that sort."

Mr. Willey was chairman of the schools ad hoc finance committee and was involved in various other school concerns before his election bid.

"My husband (Dick Muller) and Lloyd were both well known and heavily involved in school activities before they decided to run for anything," said Ms. Muller. "People recognized who they were."

"But he was not well known throughout the town. I didn't know who the hell he was, for instance. And that's not a criticism," said Mr. Doherty. "Susan Poore Dalton was born and brought up in the town. (People like that,) they're going to be hard to beat because they'll start off with 1,000 votes anyway."

Ms. Dalton's re-election campaign was of far less intensity than Mr. Wil-ley's efforts to unseat one of two incumbents. Mr. Willey carried 1,344 votes to Ms. Dalton's 1,263, as they took the two open committee slots.

"I don't have any background on Willey. From what I've seen he's very energetic, very capable," said Mr. Doherty. "But in the old days, coming into town out of the blue, they would have had a hard time running against someone who grew up in town."

"Basically if you need votes you have to reach all the people," said Ms. Sridhar. "I'm not into School Committee campaigns or any such thing. I don't know if they need to do it. From what I understand Lloyd Willey ran a very good campaign, too. It depends on what you're up against."

Ms. Sridhar said that keeping campaign workers motivated and focused, and avoiding finger pointing and division are the key components to a successful campaign.

"You have to have all the different groups in town - you have to get them to work together. You can't just say this is an issue for public schools so we're just going to (target) parents," she said. "We knew there were different jobs that had to be done."

"Like any company you try to run, you try to find the right people to do the right job."

"You know what the trend is - if you inform the people they'll vote the right way," said Ms. Muller. "I always stand behind all you have to do is educate the people and they will come forward."

'But in the old days, coming into town out of the blue, they would have had a hard time running against someone who grew up in town.'

An educated consumer makes the best patient

Question: I'm a 23-year-old woman, and am considering having liposuction done to remove some fat from my thighs. Are there some issues I should consider before going ahead with the surgery?

Answer: Liposuction, a procedure first introduced in this country in 1982, is the most common type of cosmetic surgery operation performed today, followed by breast augmentation and collagen injections. Like most cosmetic surgery procedures, it is generally a safe and simple operation that is performed either under local anesthesia, in a hospital or doctor's office, or under general anesthesia, in a hospital. In either case, the procedure takes between one and two hours to perform. The operation costs between $2,000 and $5,000, and is not covered by medical insurance.

As with any surgical procedure, there are some risks involved, such as permanent scarring, nerve injury or loss of sensation, though the dangers associated with cosmetic surgery are statistically small. That you are in good health is key to your undergoing any type of surgery, no matter how minor.

Though there are no guarantees with any surgery, to help ensure the best outcome, be sure to take into account the following factors:

- The qualifications of the surgeon who will be performing the operation. A cosmetic procedure can be performed either by a surgeon with special training in plastic surgery or by a specialist in another field who also is qualified and board certified to perform those surgical procedures related to his or her specialty.

- The frequency with which a surgeon performs a particular procedure.

- How high the risk is for potential complications with your surgery.

- The cost of the operation. Since most cosmetic surgery procedures are not covered by medical insurance, they must be paid for by the patient.

- The projected burden of cost should a problem occur that requires additional plastic surgery.

- The length of time required for Herbal remedies combat allergies

Runny, itchy nose and eyes, sneezing or coughing attacks, and sometimes itchy skin and a sore or irritated throat, are the typical hayfever type allergic reactions, known as allergic rhinitis, which can result from inhaling pollens, airborne fungi, etc.

Cleaning up one's internal environment with right diet and supplements for the immune system plus a healthy lifestyle is the first step toward ridding oneself of this classic allergic reaction. Homeopathic and herbal remedies can help with acute attacks without side effects. Over-the-counter antihistamines, nose sprays and eye drops have a rebound effect (the more you use them, the more you need them) and merely serve to mask your symptoms. Natural remedies work to reinforce and stimulate the body's own defenses. They are building your resistance to further attacks.

In addition to natural relief with herbal and homeopathic products on the market, you can build your resistance throughout the year by taking:

1. Vitamin C - 1,000-12,000 mg/d, taken in divided doses after meals;
2. Pantothenic acid - 200-500 mg 3x/d after meals during an acute attack; or 100 mg/d taken the month before and during the season as a preventative measure;

3. Bioflavonoids, especially quercetin, - 1,000-1,500 mg/d, taken with vitamin C;

4. Calcium and magnesium - 500 mg/d;

5. Essential fatty acids - 1,000-5,000/d of flaxseed or EPA (omega 3 fish oils) taken after meals.

Prescott House is a place where caring physical therapists are trained to increase the individual's strength and sense of well being.

Prescott House nursing home expands its rehabilitation services

Nursing homes in the 1990s have grown and changed dramatically to better serve the needs of their communities. With the expansion of assisted living communities where frail elders presently are going to live, nursing homes have had to take a hard look at what services their surrounding communities need and how best to meet these needs.

Also, increasing numbers of patients who are being discharged from hospitals are requiring further treatment and specialized services.

These services fall into three categories: Physical therapy, which may be required for persons recovering from strokes, fractures or orthopedic injuries, or persons suffering from various neurological disabilities. Prescott House's physical therapists are licensed experts who are trained to increase the individual's strength and sense of well being.

Occupational therapy and speech and language therapy further enhance the program and assist the patient in meeting his or her rehabilitative goals.

The elegant home-like atmosphere and a great cuisine, coupled with experienced professionals with more than 15 years of service to the Andovers and their surrounding towns, makes Prescott House the place of choice for patients needing rehabilitative care.

Kathleen Gerber, executive director of Prescott House, comments on the kind of patient they are presently seeing who needs rehabilitative services. "Our rehabilitative patients can be as young as 40 and in need of some minor

Prescott House has enlarged their rehabilitation care treatment area and increased their on-site staff.

Because of the competitive price advantage of these services, the quality of care and comfortable accommodations, local hospitals and physicians have been increasing their referrals to Prescott House.

Andover Walk-In provides care without delays

If you have ever had trouble getting the medical care you and your family deserve, you're not alone. Increasing specialization by doctors, limited office hours and waits once you arrive are just a few of the problems that can occur.

Fortunately, there's a simple way to avoid these hassles: Come to the Andover Walk-In Medical Center at Doctors' Park.

The Walk-In Medical Center is designed to provide quality medical care - without the delays.

When you're hurt or under the weather, you feel bad enough. But waiting to receive attention only adds to your misery. At the Andover Walk-In Medical Center, the staff does everything to make your visit as pleasant as possible - from seeing you quickly to treating you with courtesy and respect.

"We never forget that you're the reason we're here," said registered nurse Pat Palermo, administrative director of the center. "And that's only natural, since we're locally-owned, not part of some health-care chain."

You never need an appointment at the Walk-In Center. Just walk in, like the name says. That means no more waiting a long time to see a doctor or to get medical attention in a busy emergency room. You can get help when it's most convenient for you.

You'll be treated by a staff that includes specialists in emergency medicine, internal medicine and/or family practice. Your registered nurse will most likely be certified in advanced life-support techniques and emergency care.

The physicians, nurses and staff are trained in ambulatory and urgent care. That means they can treat a wide variety of ailments such as colds, sore throats and flu, fractures, burns and cuts, sprains and other sports injuries, allergic reactions and minor skin infections, minor medical illnesses and physical exams.

The center has on-site X-ray, electrocardiogram and lab facilities to make diagnosis and treatment easier and more accurate. Mammography services, nutrition counseling and international travel immunizations and counseling have recently been added.

If you've ever gotten sick or hurt on a weekend, you know how hard it is to find convenient medical attention. The center is open Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m.; Saturday from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.; and Sunday and holidays from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Payment is painless too. The center accepts cash, personal checks and major credit cards. Most services are covered by major insurance companies and HMOs, such as Tufts Health Plan and Bay State Health Care.

Because cosmetic surgery doesn't treat an ailment, you should consider your personal reasons for having it done. While it may improve your outward appearance, it will not alter your looks dramatically nor will it necessarily change the way you feel about yourself.

If you need assistance selecting a physician, ask your family doctor to provide you with the names of several board-certified cosmetic surgeons. The American Society of Plastic and Reconstructive Surgeons also offers a toll-free number, 1-800-635-0635, that you can call to obtain the names of qualified physicians in your area.

Some 644,000 cosmetic surgery procedures were performed in 1990 (the last year for which statistics are available), and, since 1981, the number of such operations conducted each year has risen by 69 percent. That figure includes a growing number of men, who constitute some 15 to 20 percent of all cosmetic surgery patients, as well as adolescents.

While cosmetic surgery was once associated with the wealthy and famous, today, 70 percent of cosmetic surgery patients have household incomes of less than $50,000, while 30 percent of these have less than $25,000, according to recent statistics.

In 1990, there were 109,080 liposuction procedures performed, making it the most popular form of cosmetic surgery. There were 89,402 performed for breast augmentation, and 80,602 for collagen injections.

The number of breast-enlargement surgeries has decreased recently because of the Food and Drug Administration's 1992 ruling that banned the use of silicone gel-filled implants for cosmetic purposes.

Andover Eye offers surgical correction of vision problems

Andover Eye Associates is a multi-specialty group of ophthalmologists with offices in both Andover and North Andover. These nationally-noted physicians have affiliations with the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary and teaching positions at Harvard Medical School. Each has a subspecialty of ophthalmology, which allows area residents to benefit from state-of-the-art eye care within a convenient location.

Peter A. Rapoza, M.D., FACS, of the Andover Eye Associates is now performing refractive surgical procedures for the correction of myopia and astigmatism at the Andover Surgical Day Care Clinic.

Myopia (nearsightedness) is a slight elongation of the eye which causes blurred vision when viewing distant objects. Near objects remain clear. Astigmatism, an irregularity in the corneal curvature, causes distortion of both distant and near vision. Refractive surgery minutely alters the shape of the cornea, the clear "window" at the surface of the eye to change the way that light is focused on the retina to produce a clear visual image. The goal of refractive surgery is to improve the natural, unaided vision of a myopic or astigmatic person, thereby decreasing their dependence on glasses and/or contact lenses. No satisfactory procedures are currently available for people with hyperopia (farsightedness) or presbyopia (dependence on reading glasses).

Two operations are currently available to treat myopia. Since the late 1970s, radial keratotomy (RK) has been performed on more than one million Americans. Utilizing sensitive ultrasonic equipment, precise microscopes and diamond surgical instruments, several partial thickness incisions are made in the peripheral cornea. These incisions slightly flatten the central cornea and cause light rays entering the eye to be focused closer to the retina, thereby resulting in more normal vision.

The safety and efficacy of RK has been reviewed and approved as non-investigational by the American Academy of Ophthalmology and the International Society of Refractive Keratoplasty. A variant of this procedure, astigmatic keratotomy (AK), can correct astigmatism. RK and AK can also be combined to correct myopia and astigmatism with a single procedure.

An additional technique for the correction of myopia, photorefractive keratectomy (PRK) employs the excimer laser to vaporize a thin tissue layer from the front of the cornea focusing light rays appropriately on the retina. The excimer laser is currently under clinical study with the guidance of the Food and Drug Administration and is expected to be released for routine clinical use in 1996.

Patients 21 years of age or older whose eyeglass or contact lens prescriptions are stable may be eligible for the surgery. Patients with occupational or recreational needs not well suited to eyeglass or contact lens use, and patients who do not tolerate contact lenses, are particularly good candidates for the procedures. Most degrees of myopia or astigmatism can be corrected or substantially reduced.

All surgeries are performed on an outpatient basis using minimal sedation and eyedrops for anesthesia. No injections or intravenous medications are needed. The surgical procedure is individually planned for each patient based on their age and degree of myopia or astigmatism.

For RK and AK performed at the Andover Surgical Day Care Clinic, surgery typically takes 15 to 20 minutes and patients do not require an eye patch. Side effects are possible, but serious complications are rare. Eyedrops are used for one or more weeks after surgery and there are minimal restriction on activities. Patients operated upon within the clinical trials required for PRK undergo surgery by Dr. Rapoza at the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary in Boston.

More than 95 percent of all patients who undergo RK achieve visual acuity of 20/40 or better (legal driving vision) without eyeglasses or contact lenses. Patients with low to moderate degrees of myopia generally have the best results. Patients with more severe myopia or astigmatism can also be greatly improved, but have a greater chance of needing some correction for optimal vision.

The latest data from the excimer laser indicate that the results of PRK are comparable to those achieved by RK. The laser is now beginning to be studied for use in astigmatism correction. An area of new interest combines the use of the excimer laser with an incisional surgical procedure, automated lamellar keratoplasty (ALK). This technique may be especially useful in patients with high degrees of myopia and patients not adequately treated by other keratorefractive surgical procedures.

Dr. Rapoza specializes in the medical and surgical treatment of the cornea and external eye. He has developed new surgical techniques for corneal transplantation and intraocular lens implantation. He is an investigator in national studies of RK, AK and PRK.

A native of New Bedford, Dr. Rapoza graduated from Northwestern University and the Pritzker School of Medicine at the University of Chicago. He pursued specialty training at The Wilmer Eye Institute of The Johns Hopkins Hospital and undertook

Seeing is believing for keratotomy patients

For Brett Linton, seeing is believing. He had heard about a remarkable new medical procedure that can correct nearsightedness and eliminate the need for glasses or contacts called radial keratotomy, or RK.

"There was a girl at work who was having it done on her eyes, and I was waiting to see how it turned out, before I did it. It was new. I was a little skeptical at first," admits Mr. Linton, age 27, who has worn glasses for severe nearsightedness since his 5th grade.

"When I saw how it turned out, I was ready to try it," he says. And now, after his operation, Mr. Linton is a believer.

"I bent the frames of my glasses and threw them away. I'll never need them," he said.

According to Mr. Linton's doctor, Dr. Will Horsley of the Horsley Eye Clinic in Stoneham, radial keratotomy, while not new, has been refined considerably in recent years through better instruments and knowledge. It consists of making small, microscopic incisions in the outer surface of the cornea, which is the clear part of the eye.

"The pattern of tiny incisions is like spokes on a wagon wheel," says the board-certified physician. "The incisions flatten the central part of the cornea, which alters the way light is focused by the eye."

Dr. Horsley says that the cornea on

'I bent the frames of my glasses and threw them away. I'll never need them.'

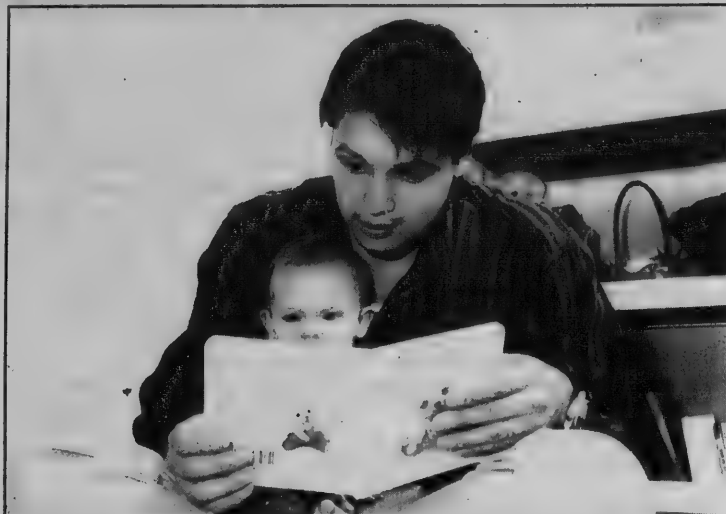

Brett Linton

nearsighted people is curved to an exaggerated degree. Flattening part of the cornea brings the curvature closer to normal.

Mr. Linton says he felt no pain at all during the five minute procedure. "The instant I got up from the table I could see - crisp and crystal clear. When Dr. Horsley checked my vision, it was 20/15 - better than 20/20!" he says. "It was awesome."

Mr. Linton, a systems manager at Atlantic Graphics in Clinton, says the operation wasn't covered by insurance, but is worth the cost many times over. "Especially when you figure a good pair of glasses can cost $200-300, and you usually need at least two pairs, the replacement costs over the years, plus all the stress of always dealing with glasses."

He is so pleased that he says, "I would have it done even if it cost much more - $1,300 or $1,500 an eye, which is what I understand some doctors charge."

Brett Linton finds his 11-month-old daughter, Sidney Marie, more fun than ever since his severe nearsightedness was eliminated with radial keratotomy by Dr. Will Horsley of the Horsley Eye Clinic in Stoneham.

The Horsley Eye Clinic charged a lot less than that, he says. After all, Mr. Linton says, some things you can't put a price tag on. Now he's able to see far more expressions, gestures and smiles from his 11month old daughter, Sidney Marie.

"My wife Kathy used to say, 'Brett, quick, look at what Sidney's doing,' and by the time Dad would get his glasses, I'd have missed it. It's all so liberating"

For John, living without glasses or contacts was an impossible dream. Now it's true.

For years, John Gagnon of Wakefield was severely nearsighted. Now he runs, plays squash, drives and works as an accountant without glasses or contacts.

Radial Keratotomy (RK) at the Horsley Eye Clinic corrected John's vision. RK is a proven medical procedure that has helped thousands suffering with nearsightedness and astigmatism.

HORSLEY EYE CLINIC

Wilson Horsley, M. D. is a board certified ophthalmologist. He is Chief of Ophthalmology at New England Memorial Hospital and is on the staffs of other major hospitals, including Tufts New England Medical Center.

Local physicians offer primary family care

Andover residents Donald Miller, M.D., and Joanne Nowak, M.D., have been happily practicing primary care medicine together for more than eight years. Dr. Miller is a board-certified family practitioner and Dr. Nowak is a board-certified internist. Their practice is complemented by Melinda Raboin, M.D., and Catherine Elie, R.N., C-F.N.P.

Until a few decades ago, virtually all medical care was delivered by general practitioners. Beginning in the 1950s, more and more physicians and patients became enamored with "specialty" care, and the ranks of GPs dwindled to the point that it became difficult for people to find a doctor who cared for the whole family and the whole patient.

"With the advent of managed care, securing a primary care physician has become increasingly difficult for patients," says Dr. Miller.

The medical specialty of family practice began in 1969 and distinguished itself as the first to require recertification every six years. A residency in family practice takes three years, much like pediatrics or internal medicine. It includes inpatient and outpatient training in adult medicine, pediatrics, obstetrics and gynecology, including routine gynecology, gastroenterology, infectious disease and complicated cardiac-care and intensive-care medicine.

As a primary care internist, Dr. Nowak says she strives to provide comprehensive care for the adult patient. And when necessary, she seeks subspecialty consultation and assumes responsibility for coordinating and assuring continuity of care.

"Besides my focus as an internist, I have a special interest in women's health care, which includes routine pap smears, family planning and referrals for mammography," she says.

Dr. Nowak lives in Andover with her husband, Paul Gilmore, M.D., and their children, Ryan, a second grader at West Elementary School, Anne, 5, and Kate, 2.

Melinda Raboin, M.D., a board-certified family physician, recently joined the practice. Her training includes broad patient and outpatient training in pediatrics, obstetrics and gynecology, as well as internal medicine. Her services include preventive health care for adults and children, care of most acute and chronic diseases, gynecology and obstetrics, as well many office procedures and minor surgery.

"Family practice is the specialty that cares for the whole family, and the whole person, regardless of age or type of problem," says Dr. Raboin. "It's wonderful to watch families grow."

Her training allows her to care for 90 percent of the problems she sees.

"Of course, there are times when special expertise is needed," she says,

"and I seek it when appropriate."

"Family practice is not just for the whole family, it is for the whole person," says Dr. Miller. "I do not believe that we are only a collection of separate organ systems, each needing a different physician, but we are a single functioning unit."

Still, he says that there are times when special expertise is needed and he doesn't hesitate to coordinate subspecialty consultations when it is appropriate.

"As a family practitioner who delivers babies, I have the unique pleasure of knowing a family ahead of time, being with them throughout the pregnancy and when the baby is born, continuing as the baby's doctor," says Dr. Miller.

"I have delivered babies at many area hospitals and can say without hesitation that Lowell General Hospital is the best, and the new mother/infant unit makes it even better," he says. "I love delivering babies and watching them grow up."

Dr. Miller serves as chief of family medicine at Lowell General Hospital. He lives in Andover with his wife, Lauren, and their two children: Zachary, who is in kindergarten at the Shawsheen School, and Carolyn, who is in second grade at West Elementary School.

Dr. Nowak is a board-certified internist. Her training includes inpatient and outpatient training in all of the subspecialties.

Dr. Raboin lives in Westford with her husband, Paul, and daughter, Anna.

The three physicians' skills complement one another. Each physician provides primary care: Dr. Nowak sees adolescents and adults, and Drs. Miller and Raboin provide primary care to patients of all ages. Because of her skills as an internist, Dr. Nowak usually handles most of the complicated adult-medicine cases in the practice. And in addition to providing primary care to patients of all ages, Drs. Miller and Raboin deliver babies at the new Birthplace at Lowell General Hospital.

In addition to the three physicians, the practice is fortunate to have a board-certified family nurse practitioner, Catherine Elie, R.N., C-F.N.P., who joined the group in 1990 after working for years in the outpatient clinic at Tufts University.

"A family nurse practitioner functions much like a physician," says Dr. Miller. "Ms. Elie handles acute illnesses, performs physical exams for children and adults, provides general family health care, prenatal and gynecological care and counsels on family planning issues. In one word, she can be fairly described as wonderful."

Ms. Elie resides in Dracut with her husband Ray, daughter, Marielle, 3, and son, Jeffrey, 8.

New patients and families are welcome. For more information or to make an appointment, call 851-4141.

Your family is our specialty.

At their Primary Care Medical Office, Drs. Miller, Nowak & Raboin believe in preventive health care for you and your family. As board-certified family practice and internist physicians, this remarkably talented and caring team offers a comprehensive family-oriented medical practice.

Additionally, Catherine Elie, R.N. C-F.N.P., is a certified family nurse practitioner handling acute illnesses, general family, prenatal and gynecological care.

Be good to your health. Be good to your family's health. Let us be your Primary Care Doctor.

Getting a mouth in shape requires good oral hygiene

The health and fitness craze of the last ten years has made Americans more aware of the benefits of good health.

They've become more interested in their diets and overall fitness, and they're learning how taking care of themselves is good preventive medicine against many health problems.

This is certainly the case with oral care. More than ever, Americans are taking an active role in keeping their mouths in shape and preventing tooth decay and other oral care problems. But, while discoveries such as fluoride have reduced the incidence of cavities significantly, there is still a way to go. Almost all of us have experienced cavities and, as a new survey indicates, about one-third of us may not be doing enough to prevent them.

"Cavities aren't a 'natural' part of growing up," says Dr. Gerard Kugel, DMD, Tufts University. "They are the result of not taking proper care of your teeth. You can prevent cavities and other problems by following a good oral hygiene regimen, eating a proper diet and visiting your dentist regularly."

The primary reason for oral care is to prevent the build-up of plaque on teeth. Plaque is a soft, sticky substance that is a combination of food particles and bacteria that forms on the teeth. If not removed, plaque can lead to staining of teeth, as well as cavities and other more serious dental problems.

According to Dr. Kugel, getting your mouth in shape shouldn't be as difficult as losing 15 pounds. But it still takes determination, motivation and above all, a regular program. Consider the following common-sense strategies for better oral fitness:

- The soft touch - Most of us have grown up with the idea that proper brushing means scrubbing the teeth in a back-and-forth horizontal motion.

Actually, this approach can wear grooves along the necks of teeth. One suggested method is to hold the brush at a 45-degree angle and, using short, half-a-tooth wide strokes, brush in a back-and-forth motion from the gums to the tips of the teeth. Ask your dentist about other recommended approaches.

- Love your toothpaste - Studies have shown that if you like your toothpaste, you'll use it more often. The key is to find that likeable toothpaste.

Remember, the more you like your toothpaste, the more you'll use it.

- Get into the string of things - Because it allows you to get at the sides of teeth your brush can't reach, flossing plays an important role. To do it right, slip the floss gently between your teeth, in an up and down motion without rubbing against the gums. Avoid pulling the floss back and forth like a shoeshine cloth, as this "sawing" action will wear grooves into the roots.

- Get with the program - Above all, experts recommend that you follow a good oral hygiene program on a regular basis. This includes brushing twice a day, flossing at least once a day and seeing your dentist.

Like any fitness program, getting your mouth in shape requires an honest, dedicated effort. But keep it up and you'll get results that will make you want to smile.

Physical and mental energy are by-products of exercise

Does regular exercise really matter? "Yes!" says Dr. William Baubie, an emergency specialist at Kingston Hospital in Kingston, New York. "After the pain and sweat have been showered away, healthy skin, toned muscles, and extra physical and mental energy remain. Perhaps even more important than making you feel and look your best, regular exercise can also help prevent injury, disability and chronic disease."

Dr. Baubie says that proper exercise decreases the health risks of smoking, stress, obesity and alcohol use, and may prevent stroke, high blood pressure, heart attack, sports injury or osteoporosis.

Can exercise be dangerous?

"To get the greatest health benefits from exercise, and reduce your risk of injury," Dr. Baubie says, "It's important to exercise properly and safely."

He suggests beginning by selecting an exercise activity that you can enjoy and can perform regularly without getting discouraged. "Always consult your physician before you start an exercise program," says Dr. Baubie. This is especially important if you have any of the following risk factors: over age 40, inactivity, obesity, smoking or problems of the heart, lungs or musculoskeletal system.

Dr. Baubie also suggests you:

- Learn appropriate form and technique from a fitness instructor.

- Always include warm up and cool down activities, such as slow walking and stretching exercises for the appropriate muscle groups.

- Drink plenty of water, and dress appropriately.

How hard should you exercise?

Proper exercise intensity requires reaching your "target heart rate," which is 50 percent to 80 percent of your maximum heart rate, for at least 30 minutes three times a week. Your maximum heart rate is 220 minus your age in years. You should exercise at 50 percent of your maximum heart rate for the first few weeks in order to slowly adapt to your new exercise program.

What if you get injured?

"If you experience any pain, dizziness, shortness of breath, irregular heartbeat, or increased fatigue, stop your exercise immediately and consult your physician or trainer," says Dr. Baubie.

Most exercise or sports-related injuries are caused by overuse and unusual demands on muscles, joints, tendons and ligaments. Overuse injuries are treated with cold packs, elevation, rest and anti-inflammatory medication for the first few days and then heat with gradual stretching and strengthening activities.

Exercise equipment helps maintain life-long fitness

Almost everyone who embarks on a diet never finds the real solution to the weight-loss dilemma. In fact, the majority of all weight-loss resolutions are completely forgotten and disregarded just four short months later.

"Many people take the wrong approach when trying to lose weight and tone their bodies," said Jeff Zwiefel, director of The National Exercise For Life Institute. "Instead of adopting an easy-to-follow exercise program and learning to eat sensibly, they turn to over-rated liquid diets and starvation techniques that simply aren't safe or effective. An aerobic workout of at least 20 minutes a day, three times a week is really all you need to strengthen your cardiovascular system, help maintain or lose weight and overcome many health related problems including diabetes, arthritis and stress."

If you like to walk, but find that outdoor weather conditions don't always agree with your plans, a treadmill is an ideal alternative. Treadmills that combine an upper-body exerciser provide a total-body workout. Results from a study at a major university concluded that up to 79 percent more calories are burned and a 53 percent greater cardiovascular workout is attained with a upper-body exerciser then just ordinary treadmills.

Stairsteppers, which provide a safe and smooth, non-jarring, rotary motion, put less impact on the knees. While standing, the user works his lower body safely and comfortably through the use of rotating foot pedals. Attaching a pair of arm poles allows the user to also work his upper body.

Unlike standard exercise bikes that exercise only the lower body, a new fitness bike provides a total-body workout by combining a recumbent (reclined) seat cycle with independent resistance upper-body arm poles that are pushed and pulled while exercising. A study at a major university found that this kind of exerciser provides up to a 30 percent greater cardiovascular workout than ordinary exercise bikes.

According to James M. Rippe, M.D., combining various activities fends off boredom and also prevents overuse injuries. "The key to losing weight and keeping it off is to find fitness activities that are easy to do and at the same time highly efficient," said Zwiefel. "If you choose an exercise you enjoy, chances are you'll adopt a lifelong habit of health and fitness and reach and maintain your weight-loss goals."

Fit is it! represents the future of fitness – at home

The philosophy behind Fit is it! is to help women attain their health and fitness goals, and by doing so, create a positive self-image, gain confidence and develop a sense of well-being.

In-home personal fitness counseling has been called "the future in fitness." As we get busier with our everyday lives, people don't always have the time to go to a health club for a workout. This, and the matter of privacy and personal attention, originated businesses like Fit is it! of Andover.

When Audra Balentine began the venture in January of 1993, she wasn't sure how well it would be received. Much to her delight, it flourished immediately and proved that there is a need in this area.

"There are a lot of working mothers that enjoy the convenience of my going to them," Ms. Balentine says.

Private training is not just about exercise though. Today, fitness incorporates all aspects of health, from cardiovascular endurance to proper nutrition and especially stress reduction techniques.

Use of home health services on the increase

New England Memorial Hospital's health agency responds to the need

The use of home health services has increased dramatically over the past several years as inpatient admissions and length of stay at hospitals have decreased.

Home health services can improve recovery or prevent further illness by bringing skilled nursing and rehabilitative care directly to people of all ages recuperating at home. In some cases home care can postpone the need for re-hospitalizations, nursing home placement or other costly rehabilitative care. And as maternity stays at hospitals have shortened, home-care services provide care, support and education to new mothers and their babies.

Janice Dole, executive director of New England Memorial Hospital's home health agency, Health Care at Home, says "Considering the spiraling costs of institutional care and the growing number of Americans in need of health care, home care is clearly an idea whose time has come. It is an excellent and cost-effective alternative to institutional care and provides patients a way to recover in a familiar environment surrounded by their loved ones and treasured possessions."

Health Care at Home currently provides service to 26 towns north and west of Boston. Over the past two years the agency has tripled the number of visits made to patients at home.

The agency is licensed by the Massachusetts Department of Public Health and has a staff of 55 employees that includes nurses, therapists, home health aids and business staff.

QUALITY HEALTH CARE

IN THE COMFORT OF HOME

When a family member is recuperating at home, a good old-fashioned dose of TLC is a welcome addition to bed rest and prescriptions. A gentle touch and attentive ear are just as important to personal wellness as high-tech interventions and medical expertise.

The professionals at Health Care at Home bring this combination of skilled health care and human compassion into the comfort and privacy of a patient's own home. Registered nurses, therapists and support staff work together with patients and their families to help them recover and resume the activities that enhance the quality of their daily lives.

Methuen Eye Center offers full range of eye care

For three years, the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary Methuen Eye Center has been providing a full-range of eye care to local residents and patients from central and northern New England.

Located in the Valley Office Park, near the junction of Route 495 and Interstate 93, the infirmary's Methuen Eye Center is staffed by infirmary ophthalmologists and equipped with state-of-the-art equipment for the diagnosis and treatment of a wide array of eye diseases.

"The high quality of care and the physicians providing that patient care at the Methuen Eye Center are identical with that at our Boston hospital," says Jack F. Bowers, M.D., director of the center. "Like the infirmary in Boston, we have the specialized equipment, such as ultrasound and lasers, to provide on-site diagnosis and therapy."

For Dr. Bowers, who had practiced ophthalmology in the Haverhill area for more than 25 years, an important feature of the center is its location. "We established the

The center offers a full range of outpatient ophthalmology services, including:

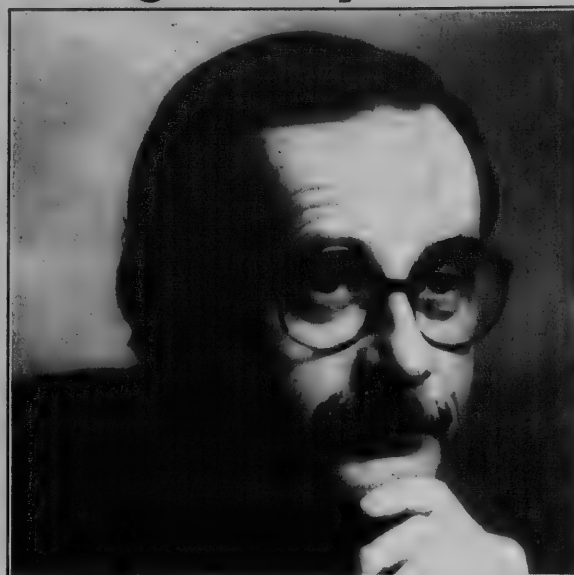

- Cornea;
- Diabetic eye care;
- Eye plastics;
- Glaucoma;
- Neuro-ophthalmology;
- Ophthalmic oncology;
- Pediatric ophthalmology;
- Retina.

The center also provides a full range of primary eye care, including medical eye examinations and refractions for glasses and contact lenses, plus the center houses its own optical shop.

The center participates in a number of eye studies that are being conducted in conjunction with infirmary researchers in Boston. Eligible participants will be able to partake in new treatments for several common eye problems, such as macular degeneration, age-related eye disease and various corneal disorders.

"The Methuen Eye Center provides an opportunity for people locally and in central and northern New England to receive the high level of care for which the infirmary is internationally known," says Dr. Bowers. "I think this is a wonderful combination: great Mary Ellen McDermott, Andover resident and physical therapist, assists her Aunt Ellen at Sutton Hill Nursing and Retirement Center.

Sutton Hill offers sub-acute care to patients

When Mary Ellen McDermott's 80-year-old aunt fractured her hip during a treacherous snowstorm last January, and then underwent emergency surgery at an area hospital, the concerned niece knew the rehabilitative care Aunt Ellen would require after her release was critical. Ms. McDermott, an Andover resident who is also a professional physical therapist, knew that Sutton Hill had expanded its rehabilitation services and sub-acute care unit, but it was the facility's multi-disciplinary team approach to patient care, comfort and recovery that most impressed her and affirmed her decision.

"Being a physical therapist myself, it was important to know that the rehab program which my aunt would be getting would be a comprehensive one, with full-time therapists who would be able to see her two or three times during the day, or as often as she was able to tolerate it," Ms. McDermott says.

Sutton Hill's competent team of physical therapists, occupational therapists, as well as speech and language pathologists, eased Aunt Ellen's recovery process, Ms. McDermott says. "It was a wonderful experience for her," she adds.

With soaring health-care costs, many hospitals are releasing patients who still require skilled nursing care and special medical procedures. Katherine Lemay, Sutton Hill's executive director explained, "People are being discharged now, much quicker and sicker from hospitals, and they are coming to nursing facilities to get the care that they need." Ms. Lemay comments that in some instances, Sutton Hill can provide a similar level of service that is much less expensive.

The facility's focus on sub-acute care offers special services to patients seeking additional health assistance, but who do not necessarily need the type of critical aid and intensive testing that a hospital would provide. This sub-acute care is available to all adult age levels.

Our youngest patient that we've had is 33," Ms. Lemay says. "She was here to recuperate after a serious car accident." In fact, she continues, the center has guided many patients in their forties, fifties and sixties along the path to recovery.

To support its rehabilitation program, Sutton Hill has enlarged its treatment area and increased its specialized equipment. The expanded team of specialists allows the sub-acute unit to work more closely with families to help return patients to their homes in the shortest possible time, a primary goal of the rehabilitation teams.

"We try to get our patients home as soon as they are ready, explains Ms. Lemay. "And our rehabilitation staff visits their homes and puts the specific things in place that they will need to function comfortably."

This extra measure of care and concern adds a heightened level of patient confidence and satisfaction, she says.

Because of the competitive price advantages of the services provided, the quality of care and the accommodating and friendly environment offered at the facility, area HMOs support the center's programs.

"A place where expertise and comfort come together," is one motto which Sutton Hill's Osgood Rehabilitation staff proudly stresses. Individual, personalized attention in a state-of-the-art facility is the nursing and retirement center's specialty.

Ms. McDermott praises the responsive and committed nursing care which her Aunt Ellen received during her stay at Sutton Hill. "The staff was always very helpful. They catered to all my aunt's needs, including having her hair done, delivering any messages, making any special room adjustments and, most of all, they respected her personal wishes and desire for privacy."

For more information about Sutton Hill Nursing and Retirement Center, Osgood Rehabilitation and Sub-Acute Unit and the facility's full range of personalized services, call Beverly Gioia, L.S.W., director of admissions, at 688-1212.

Sutton Hill offers comprehensive rehabilitation programs designed to maximize independence. Physical, occupational and speech therapists provide individual treatment plans for a wide variety of orthopedic, neurological and medical diagnoses. Our goal is to maximize the highest level of functioning.

"Our program is designed to provide close, constant attention to the individual and to motivate the person to work hard to reach their goals," said Kathy Lemay, Executive Director. "It's the fast track to recovery."

In addition, Sutton Hill provides residents the services of a caring and highly skilled staff, fine dining, and extensive recreational opportunities.

If you or someone you know could benefit from our rehabilitation program, give us a call: 508-688-1212.

Offering the full range of services including assisted living, respite, skilled nursing and rehabilitation therapies.

Lahey Clinic first to use laser for cosmetic surgery

Lahey Clinic plastic surgeons are the first in New England to use a revolutionary new surgical laser to perform cosmetic surgery.

"The laser, which was pioneered on the West Coast and manufactured by Coherent Medical, promises to decrease operation time, recovery time, side effects and scarring involved in traditional blepharoplasties (eyelifts), facelifts and facial resurfacing," says Brook Seckel, M.D., chief of plastic and reconstructive surgery at Lahey. Unlike earlier CO2 lasers, this new laser can vaporize target tissue without burning surrounding healthy tissue, because it delivers an extremely high energy pulsation in an extremely short time period (500 millionths of a second).

"So far I am very impressed with the results we've been able to obtain with this laser," says Dr. Seckel, who has been using the laser to perform blepharoplasties (surgery to remove extra fat or skin from under and around the eyes) and to resurface the skin to remove wrinkles and scars.

According to Dr. Seckel, "What used to take several hours to perform and three to six weeks to heal, can now be done in less than an hour with a much shorter recovery time. In addition, there are no stitches or external scars to distort the contour of the tissue as it heals, resulting in a better cosmetic appearance."

In traditional lower blepharoplasty, the surgeon makes incisions with a steel scalpel on the surface of the eyelids. He or she then removes the excess fat and skin and stitches up the incisions. The patient sustains bleeding, bruising and swelling which takes a long time to resolve and there is always some distortion in the lower lid as the skin heals.

With the Ultrapulse CO2 laser, the surgeon makes a nearly bloodless, charless incision on the inside of the lower lid and then vaporizes the fat. The incision inside the lower eyelid is not stitched. There is far less bleeding, bruising and swelling. Thus, the patient can return to public life earlier.

While earlier generations of CO2 lasers have been used for blepharoplasties and other cosmetic procedures, they have not been as effective as the Ultrapulse CO2 laser because they burned the skin.

"That is because earlier lasers did not deliver a high enough intensity energy as rapidly," says Dr. Seckel. "The slower delivery of energy to the tissue allowed heat to penetrate and damage the skin."

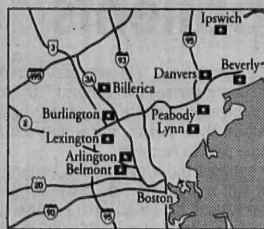

"The Ultrapulse delivers a very high intensity energy in a single pulse in less than millisecond, not enough time for the heat to penetrate and burn the tissue," he says. "The laser can vaporize target tissue without damaging surrounding tissue."

Dr. Seckel's results are similar to the findings of studies conducted at the Institute of Laser Cosmetic Surgery in Los Angeles. In these studies, 13 volunteers underwent blepharoplasties, one eye on each patient was done with the laser, the other with a traditional scalpel. The researchers found that the laser surgery reduced intraoperative time and bleeding. They also found that there was less bruising and swelling in the weeks following the surgery, although scarring and long-term results were not different for the laser versus the traditional surgery.

In terms of the future, Dr. Seckel believes that the Ultrapulse CO2 laser has tremendous potential for use in plastic and reconstructive surgery.
